CONSTITUTIONAL

Declaration of Independence

United States Constitution

Constitution of West Virginia

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

MADE BY THE ORIGINAL THIRTEEN STATES IN CONGRESS
AT PHILADELPHIA

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED JULY 4, 1776

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our government:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every state of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injuries. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and holds them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in general Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Internal Government and Police

2. The government of the United States is a government of enumerated powers, and all powers not delegated to it, nor inhibited to the States, are reserved to the States or to the people thereof. Among the powers so reserved by the States is the exclusive regulation of their own internal government and police; and it is the high and solemn duty of the several departments of government, created by this Constitution, to guard and protect the people of this State from all encroachments upon the rights so reserved.

Continuity of Constitutional Operation

3. The provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and of this State, are operative alike in a period of war as in time of peace, and any departure therefrom, or violation, thereof, under the plea of necessity, or any other plea, is subversive of good government, and tends to anarchy and despotism.

Representatives to Congress

4. For the election of representatives to congress, the State shall be divided into districts, corresponding in number with the representatives to which it may be entitled; which districts shall be formed of contiguous counties, and be compact. Each district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of population, to be determined according to the rule prescribed in the Constitution of the United States.

ARTICLE II

[The Senate is now composed of thirty-two, and the House of Delegates of ninety-four members.]

Senators and Delegates—Terms of Office

Every district shall elect two Senators, but where the district is composed of more than one county, both shall not be chosen from the same county. After every such census, the Legislature shall alter the Senatorial Districts, so far as may be necessary to make them conform to the foregoing provision.

[There are now sixteen senatorial districts, as provided by Acts of 1937, Ch. 128.]

Senatorial Districts Designated

7. After every census the Delegates shall be apportioned as follows: The ratio of representation for the House of Delegates shall be ascertained by dividing the whole population of the State by the number of which the House is to consist and rejecting the fraction of a unit, if any, resulting from such division. Dividing the population of every Delegate District, and of every county not included in a Delegate District, by the ratio thus ascertained, there shall be assigned to each a number of Delegates equal to the quotient obtained by this division, excluding the fractional remainder. The additional Delegates necessary to make up the number of which the House is to consist, shall then be assigned to those Delegate Districts, and counties not included in a Delegate District, which would otherwise have the largest fractions unrepresented; but every Delegate District and county not included in a Delegate District shall be entitled to at least one Delegate.

Designation of Delegate Districts

8. Until a new apportionment shall be declared, the counties of Pleasants and Wood shall form the first Delegate District, and elect three Delegates; Ritchie and Calhoun the second, and elect two Delegates; Barbour, Harrison and Taylor the third, and elect one Delegate; Randolph and Tucker the fourth, and elect one Delegate; Nicholas, Clay and Webster the fifth, and elect one Delegate; McDowell and Wyoming the sixth, and elect one Delegate.

[There are now no delegate districts, each county having at least one member.]

9. Until a new apportionment shall be declared, the apportionment of Delegates to the counties not included in Delegate Districts, and to Barbour, Harrison and Taylor counties, embraced in such districts, shall be as follows:

To Barbour, Boone, Braxton, Brooke, Cabell, Doddridge, Fayette, Hampshire, Hancock, Jackson, Lewis, Logan, Greenbrier, Monroe, Mercer, Mineral, Morgan, Grant, Hardy, Lincoln, Pendleton, Putnam, Roane, Gilmer, Taylor, Tyler, Upshur, Wayne, Wetzel, Wirt, Pocahontas, Summers and Raleigh counties, one Delegate each.

To Berkeley, Harrison, Jefferson, Marion, Marshall, Mason, Monongalia and Preston counties, two Delegates each.

To Kanawha County, three Delegates.

To Ohio County, four Delegates.

[Many changes have been made in this apportionment. Kanawha County, the largest in population, now has eight Delegates.]

Arrangement of Senatorial and Delegate Districts

10. The arrangement of the Senatorial and Delegate Districts, and apportionment of Delegates, shall hereafter be declared by law, as soon as possible after each succeeding census, taken by authority of the United States. When so declared they shall apply to the first general election for members of the Legislature, to be thereafter held, and shall continue in force unchanged, until such Districts shall be altered, and Delegates apportioned, under the succeeding census.

Additional Territory May Be Admitted Into State

11. Additional territory may be admitted into, and become part of this State, with the consent of the Legislature and a majority of the qualified voters of the State, voting on the question. And in such case provision shall be made by law for the representation thereof in the Senate and House of Delegates, in conformity with the principles set forth in this Constitution. And the number of members of which each house of the Legislature is to consist, shall thereafter be increased by the representation assigned to such additional territory.

No person who may have collected or been entrusted with public money, whether State, county, township, district, or other municipal organization, shall be eligible to the Legislature, or to any office of honor, trust, or profit in this State, until he shall have duly accounted for and paid over such money according to law.

Senators and Delegates Not to Hold Civil Office of Profit

15. No Senator or Delegate, during the term for which he shall have been elected, shall be elected or appointed to any civil office of profit under this State, which has been created, or the emoluments of which have been increased during such term, except offices to be filled by election by the people. Nor shall any member of the Legislature be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract with the State, or any county thereof, authorized by any law passed during the term for which he shall have been elected.

Oath of Senators and Delegates

16. Members of the Legislature before they enter upon their duties, shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of West Virginia, and faithfully discharge the duties of Senator (or Delegate) according to the best of my ability;" and they shall also take this further oath, to-wit: "I will not accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing, from any corporation, company, or person for any vote or influence I may give or withhold, as Senator (or Delegate), on any bill, resolution, or appropriation, or for any act I may do or perform as Senator (or Delegate)." These oaths shall be administered in the hall of the house to which the member is elected, by a Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals, or of a Circuit Court, or by any other person authorized by law to administer an oath; and the Secretary of State shall record and file said oaths subscribed by each member; and no other oath or declaration shall be required as a qualification. Any member who shall refuse to take the oath herein prescribed, shall forfeit his seat; and any member who shall be convicted of having violated the oath last above required to be taken, shall forfeit his seat and be disqualified thereafter from holding any office of profit or trust in this State.

Members of Legislature Privileged from Civil Arrest

17. Members of the Legislature shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session, and for ten days before and after the same; and for words spoken in debate, or any report, motion or proposition made in either house, a member shall not be questioned in any other place.

Under the provisions of Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, adopted February 12, 1919, and ratified at the general election in 1920, the section was amended to read as follows: "All sessions of the Legislature other than extraordinary sessions, shall continue in session for a period not exceeding fifteen days, from date of convening, during which time no bill shall be passed or rejected, unless the same shall be necessary to provide for a public emergency, shall be specially recommended by the Governor and passed by a vote of four-fifths of the members elected to each house; whereupon, a recess of both houses must be taken until the Wednesday after the second Monday of March following. On reassembling of the Legislature, no bills shall be introduced in either house without a vote of three-fourths of all the members elected to each house taken by yeas and nays. The regular session shall not continue longer than forty-five days after reconvening, without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to each house." The Senate shall choose, from its own body, a President; and the House of Delegates, from its own body, a Speaker. Each House shall appoint its own officers, and remove them at pleasure. The oldest delegate present shall call the House to order at the opening of each new House of Delegates, and preside over it until the Speaker thereof shall have been chosen and have taken his seat. Vote on the amendment: For ratification, 51,405; against ratification, 26,651; majority, 24,754.

estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the Legislature as certified to the Board of Public Works in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the judicial department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Auditor; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of any debt of the State of West Virginia hereafter created in conformity with the Constitution and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under the Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the aid of the public schools in conformity with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof.

Third: The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Board of Public Works shall deliver to the presiding officer of each House the budgets and a bill for all proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each House shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Board of Public Works may, before final action thereon by the Legislature, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the Legislature by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both Houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The Legislature shall not amend the budget bill so as to create a deficit but may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the Legislature, and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein: Provided, however, That the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both Houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth: The governor and such representatives of the boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or applying for State's money as have been designated by the Board of Public Works for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either House of the Legislature it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C—Supplementary Appropriation Bills

Neither House shall consider other appropriations until the budget bill has been finally acted upon by both Houses, and no such other appropriations shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following:

(1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purpose therein stated and called herein a supplementary appropriation bill; (2) each supplementary appropriation bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said bill unless it appears from such budget that there is sufficient revenue available; (3) no supplementary appropriation bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each House by a vote of a majority of the members present, and the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage. Each supplementary appropriation bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in section fourteen of article seven of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing in time of war an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of West Virginia within the protection of section ten of article one of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D—General Provisions

First: If the "Budget Bill" shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such bill; but no other matter than such bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second: The Board of Public Works for the purpose of making up its budgets shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to require from the proper State officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative officers, bureaus, boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for state monies and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as said board shall direct. The estimates for the legislative department, certified by the presiding officer of each House, of the judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Auditor, and for the public schools, as provided by law, shall be transmitted to the Board of Public Works, in such form and at such times as it shall direct, and shall be included in the budget.

The Board of Public Works may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and all institutions applying for state monies. After such public hearings, it may, in its discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments, and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third: The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out its provisions.

Fourth: In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, except amendments thereto heretofore made and ratified by the people, the provisions of this section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by section seven of article seven, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriation or appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the bill or of any other item of such bill or bills.

The effect of the amendment was to strike out the following at the end of the original section: "The Secretary of State shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall continue in office, unless sooner removed, until the expiration of the official term of the Governor by whom he shall have been appointed." For the vote on the adoption of the amendment, see note following section 2.]

4. None of the executive officers mentioned in this article shall hold any other office during the term of his service. The Governor shall not be eligible to said office for the four years next succeeding the term for which he was elected.

[The amendment of this section was proposed by House Joint Resolution of February 15, 1901 (Acts 1901, p. 460) and ratified at the general election in 1902. The section, prior to being amended, read as follows: "Neither the Governor, State Superintendent of Free Schools, Auditor, Treasurer, nor Attorney General, shall hold any other office during the term of his service. The Governor shall be ineligible to said office for the four years next succeeding the term for which he was elected." For the vote on the adoption of the amendment, see note following section 2.]

5. The chief executive power shall be vested in the Governor, who shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Governor's Message

6. The Governor shall at the commencement of each session, give to the Legislature information by message, of the condition of the State, and shall recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient. He shall accompany his message with a statement of all money received and paid out by him from any funds, subject to his order, with vouchers therefor; and at the commencement of each regular session, present estimates of the amount of money required by taxation for all purposes.

Extraordinary Legislative Sessions

7. The Governor may on extraordinary occasions convene, at his own instance, the Legislature; but when so convened it shall enter upon no business except that stated in the proclamation by which it was called together.

Governor to Nominate Certain Officers

8. The Governor shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, (a majority of all the Senators elected concurring by yeas and nays) appoint all officers whose offices are established by this Constitution, or shall be created by law, and whose appointment or election is not otherwise provided for, and no such officer shall be appointed or elected by the Legislature.

Recess Vacancies—How Filled

9. In case of a vacancy, during the recess of the Senate, in any office which is not elective, the Governor shall, by appointment, fill such vacancy, until the next meeting of the Senate, when he shall make a nomination for such office, and the person so nominated, when confirmed by the Senate (a majority of all the Senators elected concurring by yeas and nays) shall hold his office during the remainder of the term, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. No person, after being rejected by the Senate, shall be again nominated for the same office, during the same session, unless at the request of the Senate; nor shall such person be appointed to the same office during the recess of the Senate.

Governor's Power of Removal

10. The Governor shall have power to remove any officer whom he may appoint in case of incompetency, neglect of duty, gross immorality, or malfeasance in office; and he may declare his office vacant and fill the same as herein provided in other cases of vacancy.

13. When any State officer has executed his official bond, the Governor shall, for such causes and in such manner as the Legislature may direct, require of such officer reasonable additional security; and if the security is not given as required, his office shall be declared vacant, in such manner as may be provided by law.

How Bills Become Laws

14. Every bill passed by the Legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor. If he approve, he shall sign it, and thereupon it shall become a law; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which House shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, a majority of the members elected to that House agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to that House, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor. But in all such cases, the vote of each House shall be determined by yeas and nays to be entered on the journal. Any bill which shall not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall be filed with his objections in the office of the Secretary of State within five days after such adjournment, or become a law.

Respecting Appropriations of Monies

15. Every bill passed by the Legislature making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, shall before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor; if he disapproves the bill, or any item or appropriation therein contained, he shall communicate such disapproval with his reasons therefor to the House in which the bill originated; but all items not disapproved shall have the force and effect of law according to the original provisions of the bill. Any item or items so disapproved shall be void, unless re-passed by a majority of each House according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the preceding section in reference to other bills.

Vacancy in Governorship, How Filled

16. In case of the death, conviction or impeachment, failure to qualify, resignation, or other disability of the Governor, the President of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy is filled, or the disability removed; and if the President of the Senate, for any of the above named causes, shall become incapable of performing the duties of Governor, the same shall devolve upon the Speaker of the House of Delegates; and in all other cases where there is no one to act as Governor, one shall be chosen by joint vote of the Legislature. Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of Governor before the first three years of the term shall have expired, a new election for Governor shall take place to fill the vacancy.

Vacancies in Other Executive Departments

17. If the office of Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, State Superintendent of Free Schools, or Attorney General, shall become vacant by death, resignation, or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the Governor to fill the same by appointment, and the appointee shall hold his office until his successor shall be elected and qualified in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The subordinate officers of the executive department and the officers of all public institutions of the State shall keep an account of all monies received or disbursed by them, respectively, from all sources, and for every service performed, and make a semi-annual report thereof to the Governor under oath or affirmation; and any officer who shall wilfully make a false report shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

[The amendment of this section was proposed by House Joint Resolution of February 15, 1901 (Acts 1901, p. 460) and ratified at the general election in 1902. The only change in the original section was the insertion of the words "Secretary of State" in the first line and by substitution of the words "prescribed" for the word "provided." For the vote on the adoption of the amendment, see note following section 2 of this article.]

Executive Heads to Make Reports

18. The subordinate officers of the Executive Department and the officers of all the public institutions of the State, shall, at least ten days preceding each regular session of the Legislature, severally report to the Governor, who shall transmit such report to the Legislature; and the Governor may at any time require information in writing, under oath, from the officers of his department, and all officers and managers of State institutions, upon any subject relating to the condition, management and expenses of their respective offices.

Salaries of Officials

19. Land Entry Prohibited

2. No entry by warrant on land in this State shall hereafter be made.

Forfeited Lands

3. All title to lands in this State heretofore forfeited, or treated as forfeited, waste and unappropriated, or escheated to the State of Virginia, or this State, or purchased by either of said States at sales made for the non-payment of taxes and become irredeemable, or hereafter forfeited, or treated as forfeited, or escheated to this State, or purchased by it and become irredeemable, not redeemed, released or otherwise disposed of, vested and remaining in this State, shall be, and is hereby transferred to, and vested in any person (other than those for whose default the same may have been forfeited or returned delinquent, their heirs or devisees), for so much thereof as such person has, or shall have had, actual continuous possession of, under color or claim of title for ten years, and who, or those under whom he claims, shall have paid the State taxes thereon for any five years during such possession; or if there be no such person, then to any person (other than those for whose default the same may have been forfeited, or returned delinquent, their heirs or devisees), for so much of said land as such person shall have title or claim to, regularly derived, mediately or immediately from, or under a grant from the Commonwealth of Virginia, or this State, not forfeited, which but for the title forfeited would be valid, and who, or those under whom he claims has, or shall have paid all State taxes charged or chargeable thereon for five successive years, after the year 1865, or from the date of the grant, if it shall have issued since that year; or if there be no such person, as aforesaid, then to any person (other than those for whose default the same may have been forfeited, or returned delinquent, their heirs or devisees), for so much of said land as such person shall have had claim to and actual continuous possession of, under color of title for any five successive years after the year 1865; and have paid all State taxes charged or chargeable thereon for said period.

But if, for any one or more of such five years, the owner of such land, or of any undivided interest therein, shall have been charged with State, county, and district taxes on any part of such land, such part thereof, or undivided interest therein, shall not be forfeited for such cause. And any owner of land so forfeited, or of any interest therein, at the time of the forfeiture thereof, who shall then be an infant, married woman, or insane person, may, until the expiration of three years after the removal of such disability, have the land, or such interest, charged on such land books, with all State and other taxes that shall be, and but for the forfeiture would be, chargeable on the land, or interest therein, for the year one thousand eight hundred sixty-three, and every year thereafter, with interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum, and pay all taxes and interest thereon for such years, and thereby redeem the land or interest therein: Provided, That such right to redeem shall in no case extend beyond twenty years from the time such land was forfeited.

[This section, prior to its amendment, read as follows: "It shall be the duty of every owner of land to have it entered on the land books of the county in which it, or a part of it, is situated, and to cause himself to be charged with the taxes thereon, and pay the same. When for any five successive years after the year 1869, the owner of any tract of land containing one thousand acres or more, shall not have been charged on such books with State tax on said land, then by operation hereof, the land shall be forfeited and the title thereto vested in the State. But if, for any one or more of such five years, the owner shall have been charged with State tax on any part of the land, such part thereof shall not be forfeited for such cause. And any owner of land so forfeited, or of any interest therein at the time of the forfeiture thereof, who shall then be an infant, married woman, or insane person, may, until the expiration of three years after the removal of such disability, have the land, or such interest charged on such books, with all State and other taxes that shall be, and but for the forfeiture would be, chargeable on the land, or interest therein for the year 1863, and every year thereafter with interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum; and pay all taxes and interest thereon for all such years and thereby redeem the land or interest therein: Provided, Such right to redeem shall in no case extend beyond twenty years from the time such land was forfeited."

CHARITABLEWEST VIRGINIA CHILDREN'S HOME*Elkins

Superintendent: Dee B. Gainer. Financial Secretary: Myrtle C. Gainer. Inmates: 76.

The West Virginia Children's Home is located in Elkins. It was established by an act of the Legislature in 1899, and formally opened in 1911, to serve as a Home for orphan and neglected boys and girls. In 1935 an appropriation was allotted for an additional unit. The site upon which the two-story brick building is located, contains a 20-acre tract of ground facing Heavner Avenue. In addition to the ground site for the Home, there is a 127-acre farm used for grazing. A modern dairy barn and chicken houses are located on the Home site and a two-room school building with two teachers, one of whom is the principal, is operated on the County Unit plan. The purpose of the Home is to keep, train, educate and maintain the children between the ages of six to fourteen years, until they can be placed in foster homes. Religious training is provided, and every boy and girl who can do anything is given some job in the Home or on the farm. The sanitary conditions of the Home are excellent and the health of the children is very good. All meats, milk, poultry products and our summer vegetables are raised on the Home site and farm.

WEST VIRGINIA COLORED CHILDREN'S HOMEHuntington

Superintendent: Marsden W. Cabell, Sr., (acting in absence of C. Shelby Martin, now in military service). Inmates: 54.

West Virginia Colored Children's Home, located in the City of Huntington, was incorporated in 1900 as West Virginia Normal and Industrial School for Colored Orphans. Purchased by the State in 1911 at which time name was changed to West Virginia Colored Orphan's Home. For some years the institution was supported by private contributions raised by the general manager and friends and by income from the boarding hall and farm. In 1903 the Legislature made a yearly appropriation of $1,500 and in 1910 this was raised to $3,000. The purpose of this institution is to provide for Negro orphans and neglected children under the age of 16 and such other children of like age that may be surrendered by their parents in case the latter be invalid, to be kept, maintained, educated and trained until they can be placed in foster homes. The operating program of this institution provides for the total development of the total child to effective citizenship. Provisions have been made for pupils in the institution completing high school work to attend West Virginia State College or Bluefield State College.

WEST VIRGINIA HOME FOR AGED AND INFIRM
COLORED MEN AND WOMEN

(Formerly McKendree Emergency Hospital)

McKendree

Superintendent: L. T. Thornhill. Financial Secretary: I. M. D. Thornhill. Physician: A. D. Belton, M. D. Nurse: Juanita F. Banks, R. N.

The West Virginia Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Men and Women, now located at McKendree in Fayette County, three and a half miles north of Prince, and 15 miles north of Beckley, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, was established by an act of the Legislature in 1923. The institution was established in Charleston, and in December 1928 was moved to Huntington. Over-crowded conditions and other reasons made it necessary to move the institution again, and on September 13, 1941, it was moved to McKendree, and is now occupying the buildings and grounds of what formerly was McKendree Emergency Hospital. There is sufficient accommodation for 100 inmates. Purpose is to furnish home and comfort for the aged, feeble, infirm and impaired physical condition, as the case may be, of those without means to support themselves, and who have no relatives, friends or organization upon whom, or which, to depend for care and support. Religious and social programs are provided and those physically able are given odd jobs in and around the institution. FEDERAL REFORMATORY FOR WOMEN

Alderson

Warden: Miss Helen Hironimus
Associate Warden: Miss Margaret C. Jones
Chief Clerk: Helen Williams

The Federal Reformatory for Women is situated amidst the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains in Summers, Monroe and Greenbrier Counties. It was established by Act of Congress June 7, 1924, and the buildings and grounds have a value in excess of $2,000,000. It was designed to take care of all women Federal prisoners in the United States and the insular possessions, and has a capacity of 500. There are fifteen buildings housing inmates, a Hospital, Administration Building, Laundry, School Building and Auditorium, Storehouse, Shops and an extensive farm with modern dairy, piggery and truck gardens. The Enabling Act specified that each inmate should be given training that would fit her to be self-supporting on her return to society, and the entire program of the institution is based upon this plan for rehabilitation. An intelligent and sincere attempt is made to supplant the old-time theory of punishment with a program of cleanliness, industry and education in citizenship. Classification and casework is highly developed to provide for adequate training within the institution and proper placement in jobs after release.

The Newton D. Baker General Hospital is located in Berkeley County on State Highway 9, four miles east of the City of Martinsburg. It specializes in plastic, neurological, ophthalmologic and hand surgery, neuropsychiatry and eye prosthesis.

It is a War Department installation of semi-permanent type, designed to care for soldier casualties of the present war. Patients are received from debarkation hospitals and from other hospitals in the Zone of the Interior by train and air. They may be transferred to other Army hospitals, discharged from the service, or returned to duty after recovering from their disabilities.

Construction of the multi-million dollar institution was begun in 1943, and the first patients were received in January, 1944. The hospital has a bed capacity of approximately 2,000.

The permanent Army and civilian personnel required to staff the installation numbers above 1500. Approximately 90 buildings, connected by corridors, comprise the main hospital plant. WAC and enlisted men's barracks, fire department, heating plant, swimming pool and post engineer are detached from the main group.

Included in the main group are the administration units; officer, and nurse quarters; approximately 37 wards; professional units; a Red Cross unit and patients' recreation room; post theatre; post office; post exchange; post broadcasting room; library; bowling alleys; tailor, barber and beauty shops; several mess halls and quartermaster storage units.

A spur from the main line of the B. and O. Railroad enables hospital trains to deliver patients directly into the hospital. Patients also arrive by air and debark at the newly constructed Martinsburg Municipal Airport, and are transported in comfortable ambulances to the hospital six miles distant. Buses serve the hospital.

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATIONHeadquarters: Charleston*(August 15, 1945)

The Office of Price Administration was established on January 30, 1942, by the Emergency Price Control Act. Touching every business which buys or sells, it is charged with three basic duties: First, the prevention of inflationary increases in the prices of commodities, and in rents in defense rental areas; second, the rationing of commodities for civilian consumption; and third, the protection of consumer interests.

OPA came into existence at a time when war production demands had caused the prices of basic raw materials to rise 66 per cent in the period which intervened following outbreak of war in Europe in September 1939; in the same period, wholesale prices had increased 31 per cent; and retail prices of clothing, house furnishings, and foods were up 25 per cent.

Immediately coordinating War Price and Rationing Boards in the 55 counties of the State, OPA moved on April 28, 1942, to freeze the retail, wholesale, and manufacturer's prices of almost every commodity at highest March 1942 levels. The charge for services connected with commodities was also fixed and rentals stabilized in more than 300 defense rental areas.

As time passed, numerous necessary amendments and new regulations were placed in effect to control living costs. In 1943, to obtain better compliance with food pricing regulations and to simplify the pricing structure, OPA introduced "dollar-and-cents Community Prices," which are fixed by district offices using established pricing formulae. Community Pricing has now been extended throughout West Virginia. In this way, every housewife now can know the maximum price which a store may charge for any food commodity thus priced on a "dollar-and-cents" basis.

The price control program is flexible enough to permit new regulations and amendments as conditions demand. In August 1943, OPA acted to freeze restaurant prices in this State, setting maximum restaurant prices at the highest level existing in the period April 4-10, 1943.

In March 1945 the OPA, in conjunction with WPB, put into effect a joint textile-clothing program designed to reduce clothing cost to the public and to wipe out the unwarranted increases which accounted for most of the increases in living cost since April 1943. This program called for increase in production of essential low and medium priced garments that people need most and required that the manufacturer pre-ticket such garments with the retail price for effective price control.

The end of the war brought many new price problems for OPA. Consequently, the organization began establishing prices for civilian goods which had been out of production during the war period. A comprehensive program was also put into effect for pricing the huge quantities of surplus war goods and placing stricter controls on building materials.

The price control and rationing programs are administered in each county by the War Price and Rationing Boards which are divided into rationing and price panels. The boards are responsible to the district office in Charleston, which in turn answers to the regional OPA office in Cleveland. The Charleston office was opened in May 1942.

WAR FINANCE COMMITTEEWAR FINANCE DIVISION, UNITED STATES TREASURY DEPARTMENT*State Headquarters: 608 Security Building, Charleston

The West Virginia War Finance Committee (originally known as the War Savings Staff) was set up in September, 1941, for the purpose of promoting the sale of War Bonds and Stamps. Under the direction of the state committee and the state staff, war savings committees were organized in each of the state's 55 counties. With headquarters in Parkersburg, F. Roy Yoke, Collector of Internal Revenue, served as State Administrator until the removal of headquarters to Charleston, December 1, 1942. Mr. Yoke was succeeded by E. R. Mowbray, Field Representative of the Treasury Department, Washington, who served as Acting Administrator until July 1, 1943, at which time the Treasury Department announced the merger of the War Savings Staffs of the nation with the Victory Fund Committees (composed of bankers of the nation) into one permanent war financing organization—the War Finance Committee.

On August 1, 1943, the War Savings Staff of West Virginia became the War Finance Committee, with headquarters retained in Charleston. A. C. Spurr, President of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company, Fairmont, was named State Chairman, and upon acceptance of the post announced the appointment of Robert Clutter, Charleston, a former Deputy Administrator of the War Savings Staff, as Executive Manager of the new state organization. Simultaneously with the change in organization, the 55 counties of the state were divided into eight regions (now nine) over which were appointed chairmen. County committees were expanded and revamped to conform with changes in the state and national organizations. Following the resignation January 1, 1944, of Mr. Clutter, W. C. Handlan, West Virginia newspaper man and former director of publications for the State Department of Agriculture, assumed the office of Executive Manager and served in that capacity until his resignation July 31, 1945. On August 1, 1945, Bernard S. Payne, deputy manager in charge of payroll savings, was named Executive Manager. Mr. Payne became identified with the war financing program in the state in May, 1942, prior to which time he was connected with newspapers in Welch, Williamson, and Columbus, Ohio.

From the inception of the war financing program the Governor of West Virginia has served as honorary chairman of the state committee, members of which represent business, industry, the church, education, labor, and civic and social organizations of the state. The Honorable M. M. Neely served in this capacity until January 15, 1945, at which time he was succeeded by the Honorable Clarence W. Meadows, who until his election as chief executive ably served as Chairman of the Raleigh County War Finance Committee. Revenue for prosecuting the war is provided by a continuing day-in and day-out war financing program highlighted by periodic war loan campaigns. Month-by-month sales and records of war loan drives provide evidence of the type of support given the war financing program by the people of West Virginia.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

Regional Office: 1300 Union Commerce Building, Cleveland, Ohio

The War Production Board was organized with two principal duties to perform. It is a service Organization which was designed to assist business and government in achieving a coordinated program of maximum war production, and it is designated to inform the various businesses and general public as to priority regulations and to see that priority regulations are obeyed.

During the war, manufacturers and producers whose facilities were not being used in war production were supplied with information and specifications on needed war material, and WPB further assisted them in submitting bids on the needed products.

Surveys were also conducted of plants in which civilian production was limited by priorities, lack of transportation or other emergency reasons. After having gained knowledge of a plant's unused facilities, WPB was in a position to suggest various items which were needed and which the plant could produce. Thus, it facilitated and expanded the production of needed items by enabling plants to continue or resume production; and it relieved the distressed situation of the management of the plants and of the labor they employ.

In the field of priorities, WPB serves as an information bureau, informing manufacturers, jobbers, retailers and individuals concerning priority regulations affecting their affairs. Approximately 85% of the applications filed for priority assistance needed for procurement of equipment and materials, are processed in the Field Offices.

With the end of the war WPB has been assigned the responsibility of assisting industry in reconverting from war to peace time production.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

WEST VIRGINIA STATE HEADQUARTERS

CHARLESTON

(Corrected to September 1, 1945)

Purpose of Selective Service System is to procure men for the armed forces, a task that must be accomplished with maximum efficiency, economy and equity, and a minimum of disturbance to the social, economic, industrial and agricultural life of the Nation. The processes are registration, classification and selection, and delivery for induction. The Governor of the State is responsible for the administration of the Selective Service law, and performs the functions through the "State Headquarters for Selective Service."

History of Selective Service

The Selective Service System was created by Act of Congress, approved by the President September 16, 1940.

The head of the System in each State is the Governor and, under the Law and Regulations, one local board is created for each thirty thousand population and one appeal board for each seventy thousand population. Under the Law and Regulations, the Governor administers the System through members of the National Guard of the United States and of the State assigned to the State Staff and State Detachment.

At the organization, the then Governor, Honorable Homer A. Holt, appointed members for the required number of local boards throughout the State and the appeal boards, local board Appeal Agents, Medical Examiners, Medical and Registrants' Advisory Boards.

On approval of the Act, the following officers and enlisted men of the State Staff and the State Detachment were ordered to active duty with the Army of the United States:

Brigadier General William L. Horner.....	State Director
Lieut. Colonel Carleton C. Pierce.....	Executive Officer
Lieut. Colonel Harley M. Kilgore.....	Legal Adviser
Major Fred O. Mitchell.....	Statistics
Major Harley H. Thompson.....	Inspector
Major Luther R. Lambert.....	Medical Officer
Major O. C. Damewood.....	State Procurement Officer
Captain Henry C. Cox.....	Public Relations Officer
Captain Charles A. Wood, Jr.....	Ass't Procurement and Disbursing Officer

In addition to the above officers, the following enlisted men were called to active service and assigned to Selective Service State Headquarters for various duties:

- | | |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| Master Sgt. Herbert B. Slack | Sgt. William L. Norman |
| Tech. Sgt. Forrest A. Bare | Corporal Kenneth C. Paisley |
| Tech. Sgt. Sheridan Ball | Corporal Andrew J. White |
| Sgt. Oscar L. Dame | Corporal John C. White |
| Sgt. George W. Heater | |

All of the above enlisted men, except Master Sgt. Slack and Tech. Sgt. Ball, have either been discharged or transferred to other branches.

On the expiration of the term of General Horner as Adjutant General, he was relieved as State Director and assigned to the Regimental Staff of the 150th Infantry, which on January 17, 1941, was called to active service.

Lieut. Colonel Carleton C. Pierce was designated as Acting State Director and Acting Adjutant General and served as such until he was retired by age on October 19, 1941. He was then appointed State Director of Selective Service in a civilian capacity and continued to serve as Acting Adjutant General, having been called back to active National Guard duty in the grade of Brigadier General formerly held.

The Headquarters was opened in the Office of the Adjutant General and the System began to function in a smooth and orderly manner.

The first call came in November, 1940, and regular Calls have been met each month since that time varying in size from the one hundred fifty-five sent on the first Call to as much as sixty-five hundred in some months and, up to the time of this writing, sixty Calls have been met for white registrants and sixty Calls for colored registrants.

WEST VIRGINIA

DESCRIPTION OF THE STATE

West Virginia, attaining statehood status in 1863 in a war which culminated a long standing series of differences between her highlanders and the Tidewater residents of the Commonwealth of Virginia, embraces an area of 24,090 square miles. She is bounded on the north by Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland; on the south by Virginia and Kentucky; on the east by Virginia, and the on the west by Kentucky and Ohio.

Essentially mountainous, West Virginia's elevation varies from 240 feet at the low point, Harpers Ferry, to 4,860 feet on Spruce Knob in Pendleton County. The mean elevation is 1,500 feet, the highest of any state east of the Mississippi. The State is in the Appalachian range of mountains, and the Ohio River and tributaries drain 21,000 square miles of its area, the eastern and northeastern sections being drained by the Potomac.

Noted principally for its bituminous coal production, in which it ranks first among all of the states of the Union, West Virginia is also important for its output of petroleum, natural gas, iron ore, iron and steel products, glass, chemicals, and chemical products. The Great Kanawha Valley is fast becoming recognized as the nation's chemical center.

Currently, West Virginia is second only to Tennessee in the production of hardwood. In June, 1945, production of hardwood in West Virginia was 38,431,000 board feet compared to 45,500,000 board feet for Tennessee. Other timber resources of the state include yellow poplar, birch, ash, oak, spruce, hemlock, and walnut.

The principal agricultural products of West Virginia are wheat, corn, oats, hay, potatoes, tobacco, apples, peaches, plums and grapes. During the last ten years the state has ranked eighth among her sister states in the commercial production of apples. In 1944 West Virginia produced 824,000,000 pounds of milk, 133,045,000 pounds of beef, and 80,800,000 pounds of pork.

Inhabited in ancient times by the strange race known as the Mound Builders and then by the Indians, the state's first white settler is generally believed to have been Morgan Morgan. His home, near Bunker Hill, Berkeley County, was erected about 1726.

West Virginia has supplied soldiers for all of the wars in which the country has engaged, from the French and Indian conflict through World War II.

The battle of Point Pleasant, fought October 10, 1774, between Virginia troops under General Andrew Lewis and the Shawnee Indian forces of Cornstalk, has been designated by some historians as the first battle of the Revolutionary war.

John Brown's insurrection, prelude to the war between the states, occurred at Harpers Ferry October 16, 1859. He was tried for treason, sentenced to death, and hanged at Charles Town.

General Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson, whose Civil War campaigns rank him among the great military strategists of all time, was born in Harrison County, in 1824.

Because of her mountain scenery with its startling contrasts in elevations and vistas, West Virginia offers the tourist a constantly changing panorama. Vacationers in the State have access to two national forests, the Monongahela with 1,700,000 acres lying wholly within the state, and the George Washington, located partly in Virginia, but with 94,000 acres in West Virginia.

There are also six state forests: Cabwaylingo, consisting of 6,167 acres in Wayne County; Coopers Rock, with 13,030 acres in Preston and Monongalia Counties; Greenbrier, 5,004 acres in Greenbrier County; Kumbrabow, 9,425 acres in Randolph County; Kanawha, 6,705 acres near Charleston; Panther Creek, 7,724 acres in McDowell County, and Seneca, 11,050 in Pocahontas County.

In addition there are numerous state parks, equipped with cabins and other facilities for the convenience of the vacationer. A more detailed description of the state forests and park systems will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Blue Book.

White Sulphur Springs, Greenbrier County, once world famous as the "resort of the presidents," passed into the hands of the Federal government during World War II, being first used as an asylum for enemy diplomats, later for an army hospital.

The state also has another new army hospital, the Newton D. Baker, at Martinsburg, and at Huntington is located the Veterans Administration facility, a 317-bed institution for the use of veterans.

State supported institutions of learning are the West Virginia University, at Morgantown; Marshall College, Huntington; Fairmont State College, Fairmont; West Liberty State College, at West Liberty; West Virginia Institute of Technology, Montgomery; Concord College, Athens; Glenville State College, Glenville; Potomac State School of West Virginia University, at Keyser; West Virginia State College, Institute, (Negro); and Bluefield State College, Bluefield, (Negro).

Principal private and denominational colleges are Alderson-Broadus, Philippi; Beckley College, Beckley; Bethany, at Bethany; Davis and Elkins, Elkins; Morris Harvey, Charleston; Salem, at Salem; West Virginia Wesleyan, Buckhannon, and Storer College, Harpers Ferry.

CAPITOL BUILDING

West Virginia's Capitol Building, one of the most beautiful in the nation, was completed in February, 1932, at a cost of $9,491,180.03.

Made up of three wings, the main one of which faces the Great Kanawha River, the building covers 16 acres of ground and has 333 rooms. Floor space is 535,000 square feet. The Building contains 10,300,000 cubic feet. Exterior of the building is Indiana buff limestone and interior is Imperial Danby Vermont marble. Nearly 5,000 tons of steel went into the construction. The dome, covered with 22½-karat gold leaf, is 300 feet high.

Other interesting facts about the building are:

Chandelier in dome weighs 4,000 pounds, has 15,000 candle power, and is suspended 180 feet above floor by a gold chain 54 feet long.

Rug in Governor's reception room weighs 1,809 pounds and measures 26 by 60 feet.

Chandeliers in House and Senate chambers each are made up of 10,000 separate pieces of rock crystal.

Bronze doors on porticos weigh 2,800 pounds each.

WEST VIRGINIA STATE FLAG

The present design for the West Virginia State Flag was adopted by the Legislature on March 7, 1929. The proportions are the same as those of the United States ensign.

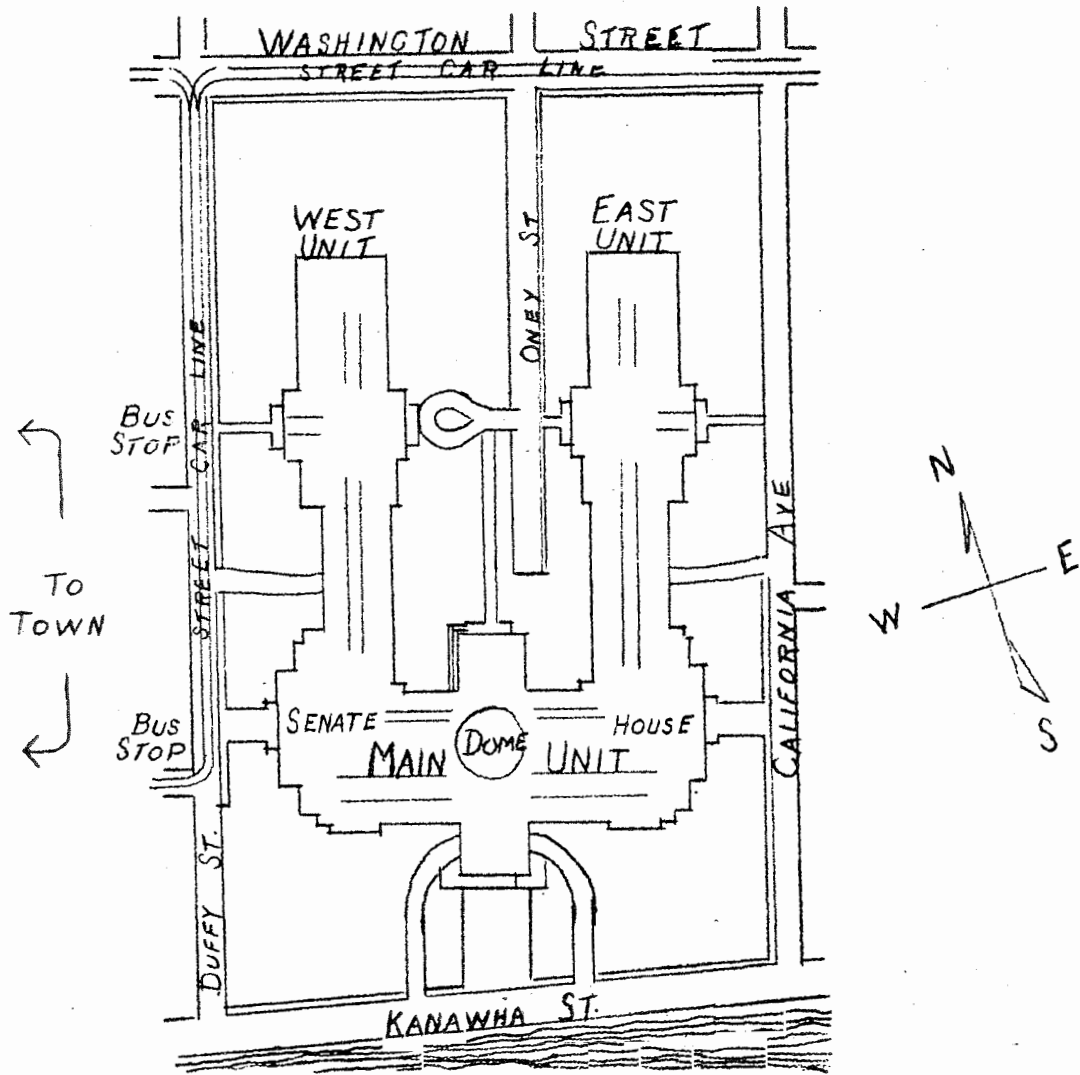

The field is pure white, upon the center of which is emblazoned in proper colors the coat-of-arms of the State, upon which appears the date of the admission of West Virginia into the Union and the motto "Montani Semper Liberi."

Above the coat-of-arms of the State of West Virginia there is a ribbon lettered "State of West Virginia," and a wreath of rhododendron maximum in proper colors is arranged appropriately around the lower part thereof. The field of pure white is bordered by a strip of blue on four sides.

THE STATE FLOWER

The rhododendron, or big laurel (rhododendron maximum), was named as the official State Flower under the provisions of a joint resolution adopted by the Legislature of West Virginia on January 23, 1903, during the administration of Governor Albert Blakeslee White.

AERONAUTICS

WEST VIRGINIA BOARD OF AERONAUTICS

POST-WAR AIRPORTS IN WEST VIRGINIA

By HUBERT H. STARK, Director

The use of air power in the prosecution of the war forecasts the direct application of aircraft in our every-day lives in the post-war period. In both commercial and civilian phases, aviation is going to affect the future of every community of the country.

Aviation's progress will depend upon many factors, not the least of which is the availability of airports. The performance of a plane in the air is unlimited, but it must have adequate ground facilities to provide its utmost service. Many West Virginia communities are looking forward to developing airports, or improving existing facilities in the post-war period.

The West Virginia Board of Aeronautics is legally charged with fostering the development of airport facilities throughout the State. This article is presented in an effort to promote airport development, encourage post-war planning, explain airport requirements, coordinate ideas and unite groups in the communities which are already working on airport plans. It is not intended for West Virginia's few metropolitan centers, where separate detailed studies will be required to determine the airport requirements, but for the many smaller cities and towns throughout the State who are going to be faced with the necessity of an airport.

The promise of a low cost, efficient aircraft for the private owner is very near to realization. It has been estimated that 500,000 privately owned planes will be a reality within a very few years after the war. This would be one plane for 300 people.

Transport planes will serve many more communities than now enjoy these facilities. Sixty per cent of our people live in towns of 25,000, or less. One of the major features of post-war airline expansion will be to bring services to communities as small as 5,000. The freight picture looms as a tremendous industry, although its possibilities have only been touched. Air mail pick-up will serve all small communities, and it is predicted that we can soon expect all first-class mail to be carried by airplane.

To realize the benefits of aviation we must first have the ground facilities. Each community of 1,000 should have access to a good airport. Long ago many municipalities—cities and counties—met the original challenge for airports and the growth of aviation to its present state is due to their foresight. Other towns refused to accept this responsibility, and sub-standard facilities were provided by private citizens. It has now become an accepted fact that proper facilities must be provided by municipalities if aviation is to be given a chance to develop. The community that does not provide a municipal airport is going to become isolated from this most efficient form of transportation.

The proximity of many communities in West Virginia makes joint airports, serving two or more cities, highly desirable in the interest of economy and land usage. Modifications in existing laws are needed to permit such joint operation, although the service contracts clause of the West Virginia Statutes has been successfully applied to airports serving more than one community.

Interest in airport facilities in a community is usually first evidenced through the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Kiwanis and other Civic Clubs. When such interest has been developed, the city or county should immediately be brought into the picture since the local public funds required for airport facilities must be forthcoming from one of these two sources. It is far better to have a board or committee semi-officially representing a public agency, and with a certain amount of authority to act, than it is to have committees from the various civic groups who must sooner or later go to the public agency to secure funds for an airport.

Each interested community should, therefore, select from its citizens a small Airport Committee or advisory board whose duties would be to keep in touch with the airport program from its beginning and to cooperate with the interested local governing agency. This group might well include representatives of civic organizations, the postmaster, a registered engineer and some representative from the governing body. Once the group is formed, it should acquaint itself with the requirements for an airport and should investigate various sites in the vicinity which would appear to meet those requirements. Advice can be obtained from the Civil Aeronautics Administration as well as from other sources. After the Board or Committee has acquainted itself with its problems, a planning program should begin.

To go into a definite planning program, the first thing to be decided is the extent of ultimate development. The initial development should be such that it will fit into an expanded airport. Too many airports have been the victims of growing pains, due to inadequate planning. Some communities have had two, even three, airports, moving to larger sites when changing conditions demanded. Many towns have been the victims of a lack of adequate planning, which has caused undue expense. To prevent the recurrence of past mistakes, it is imperative that intelligent plans for the future be made.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration has set up standards for airport development under five classes. A Class I airport has landing strips 1,800 to 2,700 feet in length. This is intended to adequately serve those towns up to 5,000 population where light aircraft operations will comprise the principal activity. No runways are required for this type of airport. Three or four landing strips will be needed, depending upon local wind conditions. Normally 80 to 100 acres of land will be required.

A Class II airport will serve the city from 5,000 to perhaps 20,000. It has landing strips 2,700 to 3,700 feet long, with paved runways, if needed. Plans should incorporate three or four such runways, and 160 acres will be sufficient. This field will take care of all single engine civilian aircraft and light multi-engine ships, and is expected to serve feeder airlines using small ships.

The standards for a Class III airport call for runways 3,700 to 4,700 feet in length. This field will accommodate any present day airline ship, and will undoubtedly take care of any future secondary airline ship. This class of airport requires 250 to 300 acres of land. It is recommended for cities of 25,000 to 100,000, although it is highly desirable for a town as small as 5,000 to plan for a Class III airport, if there is a remote possibility of airline activity.

For a Class IV airport, 4,700 to 5,700 feet. A square mile of ground is usually required (640 acres). This airport is for the large city with major airline activity. It is expected to accommodate any type of traffic, although some cities are already planning runways far in excess of this figure.

For a Class V airport 5,700 feet and over.

All standards are based on lengths at sea-level elevation, with clear approaches, and must be increased according to the altitude of the field. A landing strip is a turfed area 500 feet wide, and a runway is a paved strip in the center of a landing strip. Runways should be 150 feet in width for 24-hour operation, 100 feet for daytime operation only.

Airports and Landing Fields

The initial step in developing an airport is the selection of the site, and upon this depends the success of the airport. It is important that the site not be too close to town, because of the obstruction encountered. Two miles is not too far for a Class I airport and the major airports are invariably from 5 to 12 miles from the business district.

An important consideration in selecting a site is adequate provision for enlargement as circumstances require. Consideration should be given to areas which may be included at some future time. Topography which will necessitate costly grading and drainage should be avoided. There have been many instances where it has been necessary to abandon airport sites because expansion was ignored. It is not necessary to purchase all of the ultimate site at the start, but expansion can be protected by proper lease or option agreements on the adjoining land.

The obstructions around a site must seriously affect its consideration. Attention must be given to the area adjacent to a site, and particularly to the approach areas within two miles of the boundaries. It may be more feasible and less costly to select a site which is free from obstructions than to select one with obstructions which are costly or impossible to remove. Where obstructions of a serious nature exist, such as hills, power lines, high trees, buildings and stacks, the practicability of removing or lowering them should be assured.

Airports should not be located closer to one another than six miles between the centers of their landing areas. This guarantees each airport adequate air space and non-interference of traffic.

The natural topography of a site must be carefully considered. Although modern grading equipment makes earth moving far more economical than in the past, roughness of the terrain may force the removal of hundreds of thousands of yards of dirt. It is poor economy to select a rough site over a smooth site only because the rougher sites are cheaper. Often the increased cost of grading the rough site will make it the more expensive.

An ideal airport is one which has a large area entirely available for landing but topography does not always permit this. Where necessary the airport can be designed as a strip field, with runways extended out on ridges.

Sites must be carefully investigated for meteorological conditions. Prevalence of ground fog, bad wind currents, and the direction of wind blown.

HOW TO RESERVE CABINS IN STATE PARKS AND FORESTS

Official application blanks for rental of cabins in state parks or forests may be obtained by written, or personal, application to The Division of State Parks, Conservation Commission, State Capitol, Charleston, W. Va. These blanks must be returned to the Division, properly filled in, before applications can be approved.

Approved applications are listed strictly in order of their receipt, regardless of the identities of the applicants—in other words, cabins are rented upon a “first come, first served” basis.

Check or money order in the amount of $5.00 must be enclosed with application as a registration fee, which sum applies on cabin rental charge. Application blanks may be obtained by writing to the address noted.

Limited overnight lodging, obtainable upon request to the park custodian, may be had at Cacapon and Babcock state parks. Arrangement for reservation of picnic areas for large groups, play fields, etc., may be made with the park custodians, direct.

FISHING STREAMS AND SPECIES

(Compiled by B. D. Wills, Acting Fish Technician, Conservation Commission)

For the benefit of anglers who desire information relative to stocked fishing streams and nearest towns in which hotel accommodations can be found, the following list has been prepared. Numerous other streams and tributaries other than these listed have received substantial stockings of fish. These, however, are the largest, most important and probably the most capable of supporting extra heavy angling pressure. It must be understood that the order in which they are listed does not indicate the number of fish placed in the stream or the anglers chances of catching fish. Fishing in any of these streams does not necessarily indicate that the Conservation Commission promises the limit of fish to each fisherman. This is intended merely as a guide.

THE STATE TEACHERS RETIREMENT SYSTEM

By RICHARD E. HYDE, Executive Secretary

In 1941 the Legislature of West Virginia made educational history by passage of a modern teacher retirement law, which was broadened by amendments in 1945.

The following classes of employees are eligible for membership in the retirement system: in the public schools and state supported colleges including the state university, members of the administrative, research, extension, library, and instructional staff; employees of the state board of education who perform services of an educational nature; the secretary of the retirement board; employees of the state department of education who perform services of an educational nature; and all classroom teachers, principals, and educational administrators in schools under the supervision of the board of control.

The general administration and responsibility for the operation of the State Teachers Retirement System and for making effective the provisions of the retirement act of 1941 are vested in the Teachers Retirement Board composed of seven members: the governor, who is chairman ex officio, the state superintendent of free schools, the state treasurer, the state insurance commissioner, and three teacher-members elected for three-year terms by members of the retirement system. The manner and mode of such election is determined by the retirement board. Vacancies occurring in term of elected members are filled for unexpired periods by the governor upon the recommendation of the state superintendent of schools. Members of the board serve without salary, receiving, however, salaries from their employers and reimbursements for expenses while performing board duties. The attorney general of the state is the legal adviser of the board.

The board employs an executive secretary and the technical and administrative employees necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. Individual accounts are kept, showing each member's contributions and accrued interest at three percent compounded annually. At least once within the first three years of the operation of the law and each quinquennial period thereafter, the board is required to employ a competent actuary to make an evaluation of the system. Annual reports showing the condition of the various funds are made.

Members of the state teachers' retirement system are eligible for an annuity after thirty-five years of service as a teacher in West Virginia, or after attaining the age of sixty years with at least five years service. Upon attaining age sixty-five, the member must retire, unless his employer requests his retention in writing to the retirement board, and the retirement board approves such request.

A member is eligible for a disability annuity, if he satisfies the conditions specified in both (a) and (b) as follows: (a) service as a teacher in West Virginia must total at least ten years, and such service must have been terminated because of disability; (b) on examination by a physician or physicians selected by the retirement board must show that the member is mentally or physically incapacitated for service as a teacher, that for such service the disability is total and likely to be permanent, and that he should be retired in consequence thereof.

Members of the retirement system contribute four percent of their monthly salaries to individual accounts in the Teachers Accumulation Fund. At the retirement of the contributor, the state pays three percent per annum interest on the member's contributions, and matches the contributions and interest thereon. This money is applied to an annuity table for computation of annuity due.

Upon written application a member may borrow from his accumulated contributions, subject to these restrictions: (a) Loans are made in multiples of fifty dollars, and may not exceed either twice the member's monthly salary or one-half of his accumulated contributions; (b) members who are within five years of qualifying for age or service retirement are not eligible for loans; (c) interest charge is six percent per annum; (d) if a refund or benefit is payable to the borrower before he repays the loan with interest, the balance due is deducted from such refund or benefit; (e) the member repays the loan through monthly deductions from his salary.

Each member files with the retirement board a statement of his length of service for which he claims credit for service as a teacher prior to July 1, 1941. Upon verification of such claims, the retirement board issues certificates for the "prior service" verified. In 1943 the Legislature amended the retirement law, providing that prior service credit shall be granted for service in the armed forces in any period within which a federal selective service act is in effect.

When members withdraw from service for causes other than death or retirement, upon request they are paid their own accumulated contributions with interest; at death such payments are made to the member's estate or to a person nominated by the member by written notice filed with the retirement board. Ten years after a teacher ceases to be a member of the system, if he does not claim his contributions and the board cannot locate him, such contributions are forfeited to the retirement system. A teacher with twenty years service, upon withdrawal from membership, may elect to receive at retirement age an annuity which is the actuarial equivalent of his accumulated contributions with interest plus the employer's contribution with interest.

Through authorization granted in the retirement law, the Teachers Retirement Board approved the following five annuity options, one of which the teacher selects at retirement:

Option A. Annuity payable for the lifetime of the teacher.

Option B. Annuity payable for the lifetime of the teacher, and provided that, in the event of the teacher's death before the total annuity payments, supported by teacher's contributions, equal the teacher's accumulated contributions at retirement, a sum equal to the balance (determined upon an actuarial basis) of such contributions shall be paid to the beneficiary of the estate.

Option B-1. Annuity payable for the lifetime of the teacher, and provided that, in the event of the teacher's death before the total annuity payments, supported by teacher's and employer's accumulated contributions, equal the teacher's and employer's contributions at retirement, a sum equal to the balance (determined upon an actuarial basis) of such contributions shall be paid to the beneficiary of the estate.

Option C. Annuity payable for the lifetime of the teacher, and provided that, should the teacher die prior to the beneficiary, the annuity would be continued for the same amount to the beneficiary for the lifetime of the beneficiary.

Option D. Annuity payable for the lifetime of the teacher, and provided that, should the teacher die prior to the beneficiary, the annuity would be continued for half the amount to the beneficiary for the lifetime of the beneficiary.

Members of the retirement board are the trustees of all the funds of the system. Investments are made only in bonds of the United States Government and bonds of the State of West Virginia, or one of its subdivisions such as a county, school district or municipality. When a governmental subdivision issues bonds, it must offer to sell them to the retirement board before advertising; however, the board of public works accepts or rejects the offer.

In 1943-44 total interest earnings were $85,008.45, and the average rate was 2.5 percent on investments in effect throughout that fiscal year. On June 30, 1944, total securities owned by the retirement board were $4,760,000.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL

INCREASE IN THE DUTIES OF THE OFFICE

By ROBERT H. KIDD, State Fire Marshal

The State Fire Marshal's Office was organized over one-third of a century ago for organized fire prevention work, inspection of buildings for the elimination of fire hazards, investigation of all fires reportedly of incendiary origin and the apprehension and conviction of all arsonists. It has applied its efforts to these aims and for the past few years has assumed many added responsibilities in carrying out the purposes enumerated.

The demands, for instance, on governmental agencies at home during the long duration of a total war have materially increased the duties of the office. As the red glare of war enveloped the world it became apparent that property destroyed by fire, unreplaceable for the duration, was not only a staggering loss to the community but was a detriment to the nation's all-out war effort. The destruction of millions of dollars worth of property at home was in effect as paralyzing to the progress of the war as the destruction of a like amount of material on the battle-front. It depleted American resources in either case and weakened American efforts to the same extent. As a consequence, the Fire Marshal's Office was called on for additional inspections of public and private buildings as well as war plants and semi-war industries located throughout the State.

Fire losses in West Virginia, as in the nation, mounted. The stress of war and the nervous tension of workers, many of whom were new to industry, coupled with the unprecedented movement of troops and war workers from one location to another, immediately disrupted the normal way of life and tended to beget carelessness amongst the people. The caution of peace time disappeared and more fires resulted as a consequence. The duties of the office became more varied and more complicated.

At the request of the Office of Civilian Defense this department established a branch of the States War Inspection Service, in charge of C. A. Raper, a veteran Assistant State Fire Marshal, the duties of which were the inspections of plants and facilities in West Virginia which did not come under the direct supervision of either the Army or Navy, but which were producing or handling essential war material for continuance of the war effort. The inspections were made by volunteer civilian field men of insurance companies operating in the State. These men, trained as inspectors, operated under the direction of the Fire Marshal's Office. Officials of the Federal Government have praised the activities of this department and complimented it upon a difficult task well performed.

Despite the added duties incident to the world conflagration the office has expanded its regular services and is carrying on a bigger inspection program than at any time in the history of the organization. Inspections of public buildings and private property, where such have deteriorated into fire hazards, have been made in increasing numbers in every section of the State. The inspection of public schools in every county in West Virginia, a sizeable task, has been part of this office's schedule since 1943. Proof of the results of this work is shown by the recent report of the Commissioner of Insurance stating that losses in public school fires have been reduced from 80.4 per cent of the premiums to 68.2, or 12.2 per cent reduction, since these inspections were begun.

For the first time, the Fire Marshal's Office has completed a scientific inspection of all the state institutions, comprising 41 in all with approximately 400 separate buildings. This added responsibility is undertaken at the request of the State Board of Control and is to become a permanent part of the Fire Marshal's program.

Arson investigations, a major objective of the office, have been carried on vigorously and successfully—an average of one arrest and one indictment for arson each month of the present year is shown by the monthly report of the department.

This in brief is the record of the State Fire Marshal's Office.

DEPTH AVAILABLE FOR NAVIGATION

(Data furnished by the War Department—Revised to July 1, 1945)

Ohio River—Improvement of the Ohio River, as authorized by Congress in the River and Harbor Act of June 25, 1910, provides for a channel depth of 9 feet in the entire 981 miles of the river by the construction of locks and dams and open channel work. The system of locks and dams throughout the river provides a navigable depth of 9 feet at ordinary river stage. New dams of modern design have been completed near Hogsett, West Virginia. (Gallipolis Lock and Dam), at Montgomery Island, 32 miles below Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and at Emsworth Locks, 6.2 miles below Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Monongahela River, West Virginia and Pennsylvania—The existing project provides for improvement of the river by 13 locks and dams to afford slack-water navigation for its entire length from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to one mile above Fairmont, a distance of 128 miles. The project is approximately complete and the controlling depth between Pittsburgh and Point Marion, Pennsylvania, 90.6 miles above the mouth is 9 feet, and above Point Marion 7 feet to the upper limits of the project.

Kanawha River, West Virginia—The existing project provides for the construction of 3 modern dams on the Kanawha River, with twin locks at London, Marmet and Winfield, and the Gallipolis lock and dam on the Ohio River, near Hogsett, West Virginia, to furnish a 9-foot navigable depth from the Ohio to a point 90.57 miles above the mouth. The dams at London and Marmet were completed in 1934, and the Winfield dam in 1937. The Gallipolis lock and dam was completed in October, 1937, thus making available a channel depth of 9 feet from the mouth of the river to the head of navigation.

Big Sandy River, West Virginia and Kentucky, including Levisa and Tug Forks—The existing project provides for 3 locks and dams on the main river, and one lock and dam each on Levisa Fork and Tug Fork. Only the lower lock and dam on the main river is in operation at the present time to provide a slack-water depth of 6 feet from the Ohio River to a point about 10 miles above the mouth. The remaining two structures on the main river have movable dams which are placed in use only at such times as the needs of navigation require. The Levisa Fork Lock and Dam No. 1 and the Tug Fork Lock and Dam No. 1 have not been operated for several years.

Tygart River Reservoir—The Tygart River Dam, located on the Tygart River, 2¼ miles upstream from Grafton, as authorized by the Public Works Administration January 11, 1934, and approved by Congress in the River and Harbor Act of August 30, 1935, provides for a dam 1,880 feet long and 207 feet high for the storage of 290,000-acre tract of water to control floods and aid navigation in the Monongahela River. The dam has been completed and is now in operation as a unit in the reservoir system for the protection of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and the upper Ohio Valley generally.

Bluestone Reservoir Project—This Federal public works undertaking was authorized by Presidential executive order in 1935 and approved by Congress under the Flood Control Act of 1936. Construction work did not get underway until early in 1942, however, when the Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa., the principal contractors, started construction of the dam. In January, 1943, the War Production Board directed that construction of the project be deferred except for a certain amount of work required to bring the project to a safe point of suspension. This work completed during February, 1944, consisted principally of completing that portion of the dam inside the first cofferdam to a level approximating that of the top of the cofferdam and removal of the cofferdam.

The project is expected to cost about 27 million dollars when entirely complete. The reservoir project, designed by Army Engineers to provide flood control for the "war industry" Kanawha and Ohio Valleys, will also generate electric power and will aid navigation on the lower river. The dam when completed will be 165 feet high and 2,060 feet long. The reservoir will serve a watershed drainage area of 4,565 square miles and will provide a lake some 36 miles long. A water-head of about 135 feet will be impounded behind the dam which is located just outside the corporation limits of Hinton on New River. The proposed ultimate power installation will provide an average primary energy output of 122 million kilowatt hours and a secondary energy output of about 300 million kilowatt hours, with a gross annual power value of $1,625,000.

INDUSTRIAL AND PUBLICITY COMMISSION

A NEW STATE AGENCY GOES TO WORK

By W. C. HANDLAN, Executive Director, West Virginia Industrial and Publicity Commission.

Promotion of the interests of the State's business, industry and commerce, and development of the travel industry which, according to the United States Travel Bureau represented nearly $6,000,000,000 nationally in 1939, are twin assignments of the West Virginia Industrial and Publicity Commission.

Created by the Legislature at its 1945 session as a new agency of the state government, the Industrial and Publicity Commission became fully operative July 1 when funds were released covering the 1945-46 biennium.

Both from the standpoint of industrial development and of travel promotion, West Virginia is in a favorable position as the nation enters an unsettled post-war era. Industrially, the State is expected to come out of the period of war production with relatively few casualties. West Virginia has a minimum of industries geared for war alone, and the change-over to a peacetime economy may very well be expected to be less strenuous here than in other states where war production was exactly what the name implies. As this is written it is not possible to supply facts and figures, the industrial situation being "fluid", as the overseas correspondents say. Nevertheless there is every reason to believe that industry will adjust itself to post-war conditions with little lost motion.

There is supporting evidence that the foregoing is more than wishful thinking. Industry has found that West Virginia is a good place in which to locate. The State has what industry needs—raw materials, fuel, power, transportation—proximity to markets. A circle of 500-miles radius, drawn around the geographical center of West Virginia, would enclose 60 percent of the population of the United States. Additionally, the war has demonstrated that West Virginia's population includes an intelligent, effective working force which proved during the war years that new trades could readily be learned, and new tasks performed quickly and efficiently.

Other testimony. Waiting only for the release of critical materials, two national industrial organizations are preparing to build in the Ohio Valley, one south of St. Marys, the other below Parkersburg.

The other arm of the Industrial and Publicity Commission's "pincer", that one aimed at the commercially potent tourist market, is limited only by the State's capacity to entertain the traveling public. Removal of travel restrictions and production and sale of new automobiles and tires are expected to generate a flood of private travel such as the nation has never before experienced. The New York Times quotes the United States Travel Bureau as saying West Virginia's 1939 income from tourists was $52,117,000. Income of this volume places the travel industry among the top commercial enterprises of the State. The Industrial and Publicity Commission sees in this field an opportunity for substantial development by private investors.

The Legislature has assigned the Commission multiple related duties. Some of these:

To promote and encourage the expansion and development of markets for West Virginia products; study conditions affecting West Virginia business, industry and commerce; develop a business information service for state industries and for those outside the State who do, or may do, business here; encourage and develop commerce with other states; cooperate with other public and private organizations or groups in promoting the purposes of the commission.

Some Commission plans as this article is written, less than two months after operations were started:

For industrial development: Assembling of a complete library of industrial information.

For the tourist business: Organization of a state-wide program preparatory to receiving the first wave of the post-war flood in 1946. An initial feature will be the holding of "travel clinics" at key points throughout the State during the winter of 1945-46.

The job to be done by the Industrial and Publicity Commission is not one for the members of the Commission alone, or for the small paid staff which is available. All the resources of the state government, and the various state institutions are being enlisted in an undertaking that, it is hoped, will bring appreciable results at the earliest possible date. Aside from public agencies, cooperation is also being solicited from every organized group able to supply something which the Commission can use, or develop.

The Commission feels that it has a two-fold job for an immediate objective:

- 1—To organize a workmanlike program; and
- 2—To sell itself to the people of West Virginia.

The first must be done if the Commission is to justify its existence. The second is imperative if the State and its people are to reap the full benefit of their investment in promotion, for sympathy and understanding on the part of the public are vital to complete cooperation.

THE OUTLOOK FOR INDUSTRY AND TRADE IN POSTWAR WEST VIRGINIA

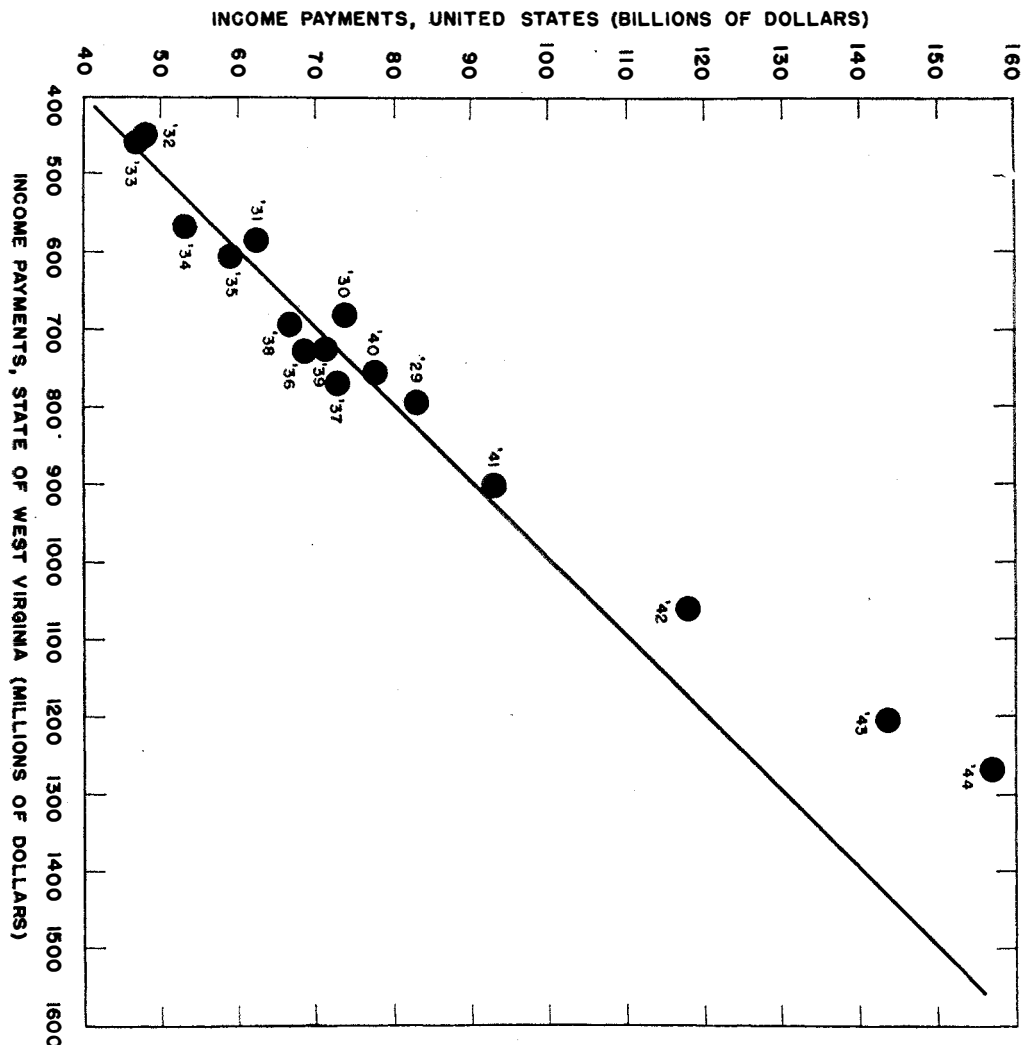

By EARLE L. ELMORE, Director of Research, West Virginia Chamber of Commerce, Charleston.

This article does not purport to be a forecast, or prophecy of what will happen industrially in West Virginia in the years which follow World War II. It is merely intended to show how we may arrive at certain conclusions regarding industrial and trade developments during the next five years in West Virginia without resort to astrology or the use of a crystal ball. Essentially, when we make projections of the probable trends of business activity we start with certain assumptions, and these assumptions are matters of judgment. We assume the future economic environment of the State and then we try to translate our assumptions into figures. Different persons may use different assumptions in arriving at certain prognostications, but there is one basic assumption which is used by all prognosticators. This is the assumption that there will be a definite relationship between the past and the future.

The most dependable tools or aids in projecting business trends in post-war West Virginia are statistics of the total income payments which are received by all the residents of the State. No lengthy discussion is needed to show the close relationship between consumer incomes and purchasing power of consumers. In peacetime the fluctuations in most lines of trade and industry are explained almost wholly by changes in the aggregate incomes of consumers. Since West Virginians are engaged in a wide variety of activities producing farm products, industrial products and the products of mines, both for consumer and producer use, and since these products are marketed throughout the entire country, it can be reasonably assumed that the economic activity of the State will be closely related to national activity. It follows, therefore, that there will be a close relationship between the total income payments of the people of West Virginia and the people of the United States. This relationship is shown in Chart I.

CHART 1.—Relationship between Income Payments in the State of West Virginia and in the United States.

The line of relationship shown in Chart I indicates that for each change of one billion dollars in national income payments during the peacetime period 1929 to 1940, income payments in West Virginia changed by about ten million dollars or about one percent.

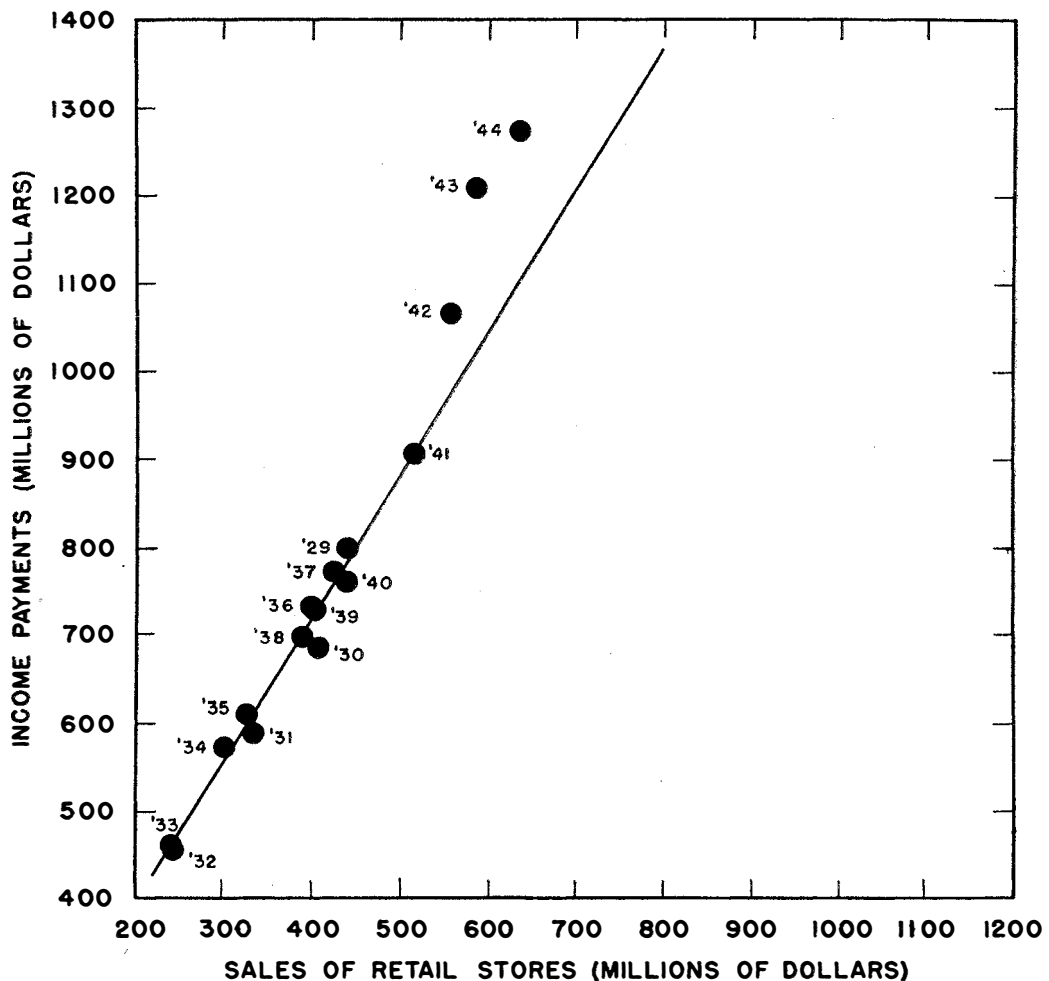

Although income payments in West Virginia and the nation have followed a closely related pattern in peacetime years, this has not been the case during the war period. Chart I clearly indicates the effects of the placing of war orders for munitions, aircraft and other tools of war in the highly industrialized eastern seaboard manufacturing districts and the west coast aircraft plants rather than in West Virginia. The points for 1942, 1943, and 1944 are considerably above the line.

It naturally follows that inasmuch as the State did not receive its share of war business it will not receive so serious a setback during the reconversion period. Soon after the war ends the State may expect to again resume its customary place in the national picture and receive its usual one percent of the total U. S. income. Since reliable estimates of national income payments for a particular year are usually available several months before accurate estimates of state income appear this chart is invaluable in making preliminary estimates of West Virginia income. After an estimate of state income has been made for a particular year it is possible to make estimates of the economic activity of several divisions of industry and trade. The method is applied below to estimate the value of retail sales and other activities in West Virginia for each year of the periods 1945 to 1950.

RETAIL TRADE

The fluctuations in retail sales in peacetime may be explained almost entirely by changes in the aggregate income of consumers. In Chart II the retail sales of West Virginia retail stores are plotted against income payments received by its residents for the period 1929 to 1944. Each point on the chart is located by the sales and income for that particular year. The close correlation between sales and income is apparent.

CHART 2.—Relationship between Income Payments and the Sales of Retail Stores in West Virginia.

Although sales and income in the State have followed a closely related pattern during the peacetime period 1929-1941, this was not the case during the war period. In contrast to the straight line correlation of the prewar period, the war years of 1942, 1943 and 1944 swing considerably away from the line. This falling off in sales at retail has been due, of course, to the wartime shortages and rationing of civilian goods.

Assuming that consumer purchases during the war had been in line with the past relationship with income payments if supplies had been available, then retail sales would have reached the huge total of $780,000,000 instead of $638,000,000, in 1944.

In order to use the sales-income relationship for post-war years, it is necessary to assume that this same peacetime prewar relationship will hold in those years. In the years immediately following the war some modification may be necessary since there is a gap to be filled in the purchase of durable goods not available during the war. The utilization of war bond proceeds and other accumulated savings to fill the demand for both durable and nondurable goods will swell the total sales well above the total purchased from current salaries and wages alone.

The volume of consumer expenditures for goods during the first months following the war will be conditioned almost entirely by the available supplies. Only in certain limited areas such as the more expensive items of food and clothing, and on goods in plentiful supply, will demand be a factor in limiting purchases. There is no question, however, that for the bulk of the consumption items demand will exceed supply.

Two distinct tendencies can be expected to develop in the expenditures for durable goods and for nondurable goods. Expenditures for durable goods will increase as new supplies of scarce commodities become available. In the second half of 1945 the increase in these expenditures will be relatively small. The total output of new passenger automobiles, for example, will represent a very small fraction of peacetime production. More electrical household appliances and furniture will be available but these items will not be produced in significant quantities until 1946. Consequently, while consumer durable goods expenditures will increase during the first twelve months, normal postwar production will not be reached until late 1946. Once this period of reconversion shortages and accumulated consumer demand has been satisfied, however, it may be expected that the usual peacetime relationship will again prevail. It then becomes a matter of determining the probable income payments for the State in the postwar years in order to arrive at an estimate of the volume of sales of retail stores.

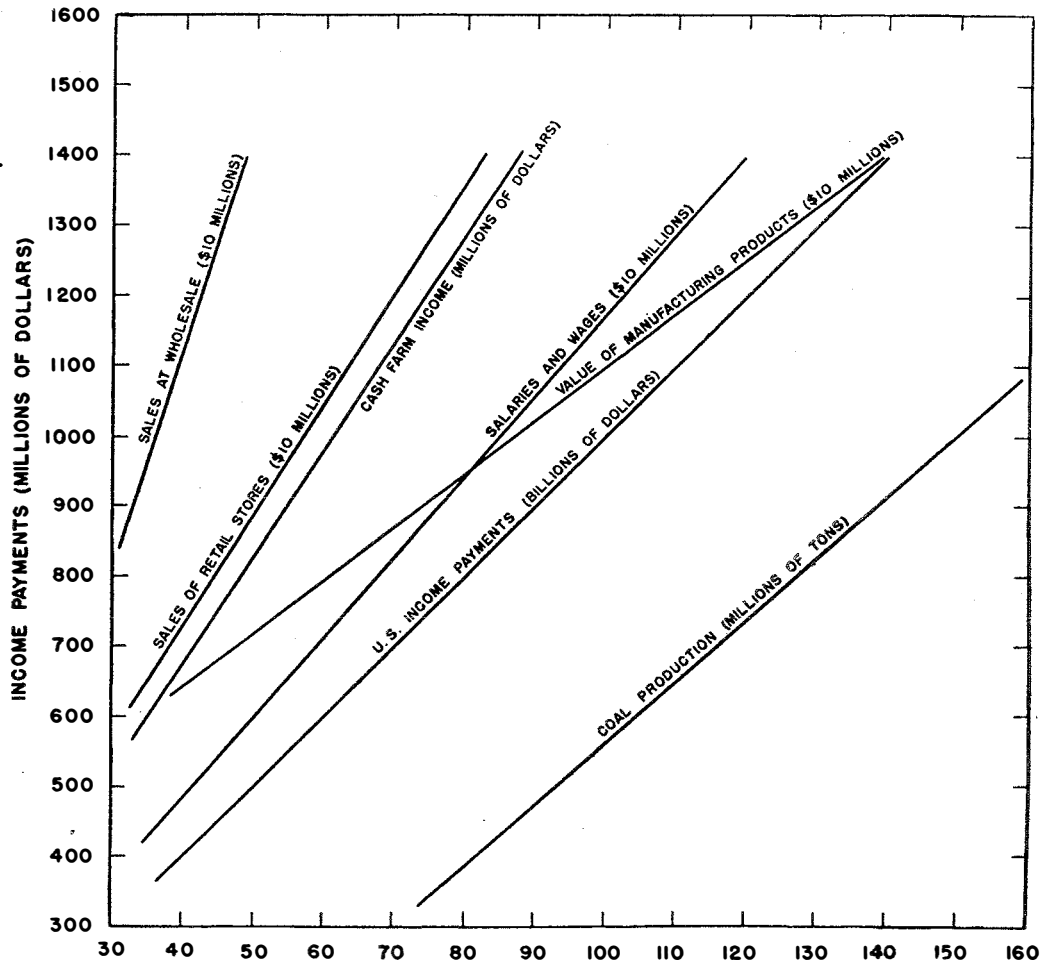

The following table shows the estimated income payments in retail sales in West Virginia for the period 1945 to 1950.

Year	Income Payments	Retail Sales
1945	$1,200,000,000	$700,000,000
1946	1,120,000,000	650,000,000
1947	1,160,000,000	670,000,000
1948	1,120,000,000	650,000,000
1949	1,100,000,000	637,000,000
1950	1,060,000,000	610,000,000

It is possible that the above retail sales estimates may be low by 10% to 15% because accumulated savings in bonds and bank deposits may find their way into retail trade channels in unexpected volume.

The treatment given retail trade in Chart II may also be applied to various other divisions of trade and industry in making estimates for the next few years. Chart III, shown below, portrays the trend lines not only for retail trade, but for wholesale trade, manufacturing production, cash farm income, coal production, wages and salaries, and total income payments for the United States vs. total income payments to the people of the State of West Virginia.

CHART 3—Relationship between Income Payments in the State of West Virginia and Certain Fields of Economic Activity.

Thus if for a particular year we are able to estimate that total United States income payments will be, say 100 billion dollars then by reading on the chart we may find that income payments in West Virginia will be approximately one billion dollars. If we read the values on the various trend lines at the intersection of the 1,000 million income mark we find the value of West Virginia's wholesale trade will be $365,000,000; the value of her manufactured products will be $880,000,000, and so on. Because the trend lines are constructed from historical data, all such estimates are based on the average past performance of that particular sub-division of industry. Points for individual years from which the trend lines have been constructed have not been plotted on Chart III for obvious reasons.

MANUFACTURING

The value of the products of all West Virginia manufacturing plants in 1944 was $1,250,000,000, a figure more than double the peak pre-depression year of 1929. If we compare manufacturing production in terms of 1926 dollars to eliminate the influence of increasing price levels, the 1944 factory output exceeded the 1929 production by 132 percent.

Because of price changes from year to year the physical output of the manufacturing industries cannot be satisfactorily compared by means of the value of products in terms of current dollars. The most trustworthy measures of the trend of manufacturing production would be provided by statistics of the actual physical quantities of the products finished within a year. While it might be possible to measure the output of steel mills in tons of ingots, castings, billets, slabs, tin-plate bars, bars, rails, bolts, wire, nails, et cetera, it would be difficult to compare such production to the myriad products of chemical, glass, textile, ceramic, and other plants which make up our diversified manufacturing industry. Because of the changes in methods of reporting commodities, the lack of qualitative comparability, and the fact that quantitative statistics are not available for all industries, it is necessary to resort to the change of value of production in current dollars to dollars of constant purchasing value by use of a wholesale price index.

The following table gives a vivid picture of the growth of manufacturing output in West Virginia as measured in dollars of constant purchasing power:

Year	Value in 1926 Dollars
1919	$ 340,000,000
1925	455,000,000
1929	538,000,000
1932	346,000,000
1936	560,000,000
1939	573,000,000
1940	642,000,000
1944	1,250,000,000

In order to estimate the actual dollar value of manufacturing products in West Virginia the trend line for correlation of income payments and the value of manufacturing output as shown in Chart III may be used. Comparison of income payments and factory production for the period 1945 to 1950 is shown in the following table.

Year	W. Va. Income Payments	Value of Manufacturing Products
1945	$1,200,000,000	$1,050,000,000
1946	1,120,000,000	944,000,000
1947	1,160,000,000	1,000,000,000
1948	1,120,000,000	944,000,000
1949	1,100,000,000	920,000,000
1950	1,000,000,000	800,000,000

While manufacturing industries in West Virginia did not receive so large a proportion of orders for munitions, aircraft, and ordnance during the war as those of many other states, there will not be comparable shutdowns attendant upon reconversion. True, there has been vastly increased production in steel, chemicals, textiles, glass, ceramics, alloys, tools and other products but all of these will be in great demand as peacetime products.

New manufacturing plants have been built in the Ohio valley to utilize the rich entrapped salt brines of about 8% concentration as a source of salt, chlorine, caustic soda, bromine and other products. These plants are likely to be operated in peacetime. New plants for the manufacture of synthetic rubber and a vastly increased volume of ammonia may or may not prove to be permanent additions to the State's manufacturing industry. A total of about two hundred million dollars was spent in the years 1941-1944 for new manufacturing facilities in West Virginia, a sum about half as large as the total for such purposes in the prior 20 years

THE BITUMINOUS COAL INDUSTRY

West Virginia produces about 27 percent of all the bituminous coal mined in the United States. The industry is such an important factor in the State's economy that good correlation may be relied upon.

The bituminous coal industry has been producing more and more tonnage of bituminous coal with fewer and fewer employees as the war continued. The trend toward mechanization by greater use of mechanical loading equipment in recent years has made the mining of coal virtually a factor process. In 1943, 74,000,000 tons, or 46 percent of the total tonnage were loaded wholly or in part by the use of mechanical loading equipment. This mechanical equipment aided materially in the high level of production during the war while the average employment in the mines was decreasing from 125,000 to less than 100,000 in 1945.

Chart III also shows the average relationship between the production of bituminous coal in West Virginia and the total income payments of the state's population. The coal production for the period 1945 to 1950 has been estimated by use of this trend line in the table below:

Year	Estimated Bituminous Coal Production in W. Va.
1945	161,000,000 tons
1946	160,000,000 "
1947	163,000,000 "
1948	160,000,000 "
1949	157,000,000 "
1950	154,000,000 "

These estimates are based on the same income payments used in predicting the total retail sales.

The long term outlook for production of bituminous coal in West Virginia is good. The State has almost unlimited reserves of excellent coal contiguous to railroads which reach the marketing areas. Improvement of methods of production and marketing of bituminous coal is also being made through research. More homes will be supplied with small and efficient coal burning furnaces equipped with automatic stokers, which operate with very little care and attention. The industry's leaders are alert to the necessity of expanding markets.

AGRICULTURE

Agricultural production in West Virginia, although handicapped by a shortage of farm workers during the war years, brought in cash income of $89,138,000 in 1944. In addition, the value of products consumed on farms where produced amounted to $40,059,000 more, or a total income of $129,197,000. This was a wide increase over 1929 cash farm income of $54,949,000, the highest prewar year, and farm consumption of production added $33,255,000, or a total of $88,103,000.

With the cessation of hostilities returning farm workers from the armed services together with continuing shortages of foodstuffs should provide the stimulus for several prosperous years for West Virginia agricultural production.

As is the case in other fields of trade and industry, cash farm income is closely correlated with the total income payments in West Virginia. This average trend line showing farm cash versus total income has been plotted on Chart III.

Cash farm income for the period 1945 to 1950 estimated by utilization of the resultant trend lines is as follows:

Year	Estimated Cash Farm Income in West Virginia
1945	$ 74,000,000
1946	68,000,000
1947	72,000,000
1948	68,000,000
1949	66,000,000
1950	63,000,000

WHOLESALE TRADE

The sales at wholesale of the 1,500 wholesale establishments listed as service and limited function wholesalers, petroleum bulk stations, commission merchants, and other wholesale establishments by government agencies show a definite relationship when compared with total income payments in West Virginia. By using the average trend line for the peacetime period 1929 to 1941 in estimating the volume of sales of the above mentioned establishments we find the following:

Year	Estimated Sales at Wholesale in West Virginia
1945	$428,000,000
1946	403,000,000
1947	415,000,000
1948	403,000,000
1949	395,000,000
1950	385,000,000

WAGES AND SALARIES

Wages and Salaries (including withdrawals of entrepreneurs) make up the major share of the total income payments each year. Hence there is very close correlation between income and wages. This average trend line is also shown on Chart III. If we are able to predict the income of the people of West Virginia the corresponding total share of the earnings of labor may be read directly from the chart.

The table below lists the estimated wages and salaries (including withdrawals of entrepreneurs) for the period 1945 to 1950.

Year	Estimated Wages and Salaries in West Virginia
1945	$1,040,000,000
1946	965,000,000
1947	1,020,000,000
1948	965,000,000
1949	950,000,000
1950	920,000,000

EMPLOYMENT

The number of persons in West Virginia who will earn the salaries and wages shown above is much more difficult to predict. The hours of work available per week and the prevailing wage rates are important factors in the wage picture.

At the end of World War II there were approximately 140,000 men and women from West Virginia in the armed forces. A like number of the population containing 70,000 to 100,000 workers had migrated to other states seeking employment in war industries. If all these persons return to their former homes and the returning war veterans enter the labor market there will be a labor force of approximately 800,000 available in West Virginia.

The average full-time employment in 1945, the last war year, was slightly less than 600,000 in West Virginia. This means that another 200,000 jobs must be found if unemployment is prevented.

Agriculture and bituminous coal mining can each use an additional 25,000 workers each year. The building trades and highway construction will probably employ an additional 15,000 to 20,000 as soon as building materials again become available. Retail trade, wholesale trade and service establishments will probably expand to employ another 15,000 persons.

The most reliable source of increasing employment will probably be through the expansion of existing manufacturing plants coupled with the establishment of new factories near the State's abundant supplies of fuel, power and raw materials. These industries together with expanded public utilities, transportation facilities, oil and gas production, and quarries may provide jobs for another 100,000 workers.

Retention of 40,000 or more persons in the armed forces should aid in keeping the number of unemployed West Virginians below 100,000 during the worst months of the reconversion period.

Full employment of the labor force in West Virginia and the Nation will not be reached unless government and business cooperate to the highest degree to provide a maximum of jobs during the years ahead.

WEST VIRGINIA LIBRARIES

By DORA RUTH PARKS, Executive Secretary, State Library Commission

June 30, 1945 marked the conclusion of the third year of operation of the West Virginia Library Commission. The duties and objectives of the Commission may be enumerated briefly as follows:

1. Development of effective state-wide public library service through sound legislation; a program for county and regional libraries, the administration of state aid and encouragement of local appropriations; administration of standards of service, advisory information service to existing libraries, and in library establishment; encouragement of citizen understanding, and development of cooperation with other state agencies.
2. Development of high quality personnel in the libraries of the State; by encouraging training to meet demands of progressive library service, by improving conditions through encouragement of adequate salaries and establishment of satisfactory schemes of appointment, and of offering advisory service in the placement of librarians.
3. Provision of direct service of books, and guidance in their use, to sparsely settled areas and to communities yet lacking library service.
4. Provision of reference service to individuals, groups, and libraries.
5. Coordination of the library services of the State.

Progress in public library development during the past three years has been gratifying, but the problems which still exist, are a challenge to every West Virginian.

Only two libraries have funds and facilities for rendering good service. Thirty-four town libraries in twenty-six counties derive their entire support from donations from clubs and organizations. The annual income for this group ranges from $50 to $1,000 a year. Eighteen town libraries in sixteen counties derive their support from taxation, and income ranges from $325 to $22,100. Of the 1,909,974 people in West Virginia only 689,637 have access to a public library. The remainder of the population, 1,212,374 or sixty-three percent, is without public library service.

Seventy-one and nine-tenths percent of West Virginia's population is rural. The preceding tabulation of town libraries indicates that urban population often has some kind of library service, but only a small percentage of the rural people of the State are reached by public libraries.

About three-fourths of West Virginia's population is not enrolled in public schools. The ultimate goal of schooling is to prepare students to use books after formal school days are over. Yet the educational institutions of West Virginia graduate their students and send them into a State where there are extremely few books to use. The problem of education before and after school years, therefore, becomes a problem in public library development; a problem of making book-mobiles and trained librarians available for the purpose of getting books into rural homes. Through good public libraries, every citizen in West Virginia can have an opportunity to receive the full value of results obtained by money spent for education in the schools.

Each year the Library Commission has made progress toward its objectives. The appropriation for the Library Commission was increased from $10,000 a year for the biennium of 1943-45 to $16,350 for each year of the biennium 1945-47. This increase will provide more staff and more books for Commission headquarters.

More and more people are realizing the need of easy access to books within the community. Residents of counties without library service call on the Library Commission for books to be sent by mail. Collections composed of as many as 500 books may be borrowed for a period of six months. Smaller packages are available to individuals. The only charge for this service is postage to and from the headquarters in Morgantown. The book stock at the Commission totals over 17,000 volumes. Traveling libraries have been sent into every county of the State except five. Registered borrowers increased by one-third last year and include, in addition to individuals, 87 clubs, 36 public libraries, and 8 4-H clubs.

Improved legislation was one of the major accomplishments of the Commission last year. The library bill was introduced in the 1945 Legislature, and, with public support from all over the State, was enacted. It provides that county courts, county boards of education and municipalities may singly or jointly appropriate funds for county library service; and that two or more counties may contract with each other or with existing libraries for services; thus, making possible the establishment of regional libraries. Almost immediately after the enactment of the new law, leaders from all over the State began requesting information on the organization of county library service. The Commission staff prepared an outline which proposes the basic principles of county library organization and adapts national recommendations to state conditions and in accordance with the new state law. Two counties immediately began working with county courts on proposed budgets for the organization of such libraries. The reaction to the law proved the need for it.

Many county libraries will be able to work out plans for county-wide library service under the new county library law. Many are finding a degree of stimulation in the use of collections from the Library Commission, but every county in West Virginia needs the added stimulation for public library development, and an equal opportunity for service, which comes through state aid. This phase of the 1945 legislative program has not, as yet, become a reality.

The average person has a profound interest in problems of human relations. Through planned reading, available through good county libraries, the entire population of the State can have a better understanding of local, national, and international social and economic problems. An access to books, therefore, means a better chance for lasting peace and better living for everyone.

MERIT SYSTEM COUNCIL

By ROBERT F. BINGAMAN, Supervisor

The West Virginia Merit System Council consists of three members who are appointed by the Governor at the recommendation of the directors of the state agencies that are being served by the council. Each member serves a term of three years. The present council is: Mrs. Victor Shaw, Chairman, Fairmont, term expires July 1, 1947; Dr. M. R. Dodd, Charleston, term expires July 1, 1948; and Dr. E. M. Sunley, Morgantown, term expires July 1, 1946.

The council serves the following state agencies that have adopted the Merit System Rule: the Department of Public Assistance, the Department of Unemployment Compensation, the Department of Health, the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, State Department of Education, and the Divisions of Forestry and Law Enforcement of the State Conservation Commission. The personnel of the United States Employment Service is still following the provisions of the Merit System Rule, Regulations on Salary Adjustments and Advancements, and Classification and Compensation Plans that are approved by the council.

It is the function of the merit system office to announce and administer examinations for the various classes of positions in the agencies. The names of persons who pass the examination are placed on eligible lists ranked according to their grades. When vacancies occur, the three highest names of persons who are available on the appropriate register are certified and the agency makes the appointment from one of these three. The merit system office has the responsibility of reviewing every personnel transaction in the agencies and giving its approval or disapproval in each case, and of reviewing the payrolls each month certifying that the payroll is correct or pointing out irregularities.

The Merit System Council advises and gives its approval on all changes in the joint Merit System Rule, Regulations on Salary Adjustments and Advancements, Regulations on Attendance and Leave, and Classification and Compensation Plans. It hears appeals from dismissed personnel and makes recommendations to the agencies.

Up to date the Merit System Council has given the following series of examinations. Each series contained from one to seventeen different examinations.

PUBLIC SAFETY

DUTIES AND ACTIVITIES OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By WILLIAM E. BURCHETT, Superintendent

The Department of Public Safety, known also as the State Police, was created by act of the Legislature during the extraordinary session of 1919, and the range of its powers and the scope of its activities have been extended by subsequent legislation. Under the law the purposes of the Department are: To preserve the peace, protect life and property, prevent crime and apprehend criminals. In order to effectuate these purposes, the following organization was constituted.

The Superintendent. Appointed by the Governor and having the rank of Colonel, the Superintendent has complete charge of the administrative affairs of the Department.

Board of Commissioners. A bipartisan board of two commissioners is appointed by the Governor as a trial board to review all cases of appeals from findings of the Superintendent or charges filed against any member of the Department.

Headquarters. The Superintendent's first assistant is the Captain-Inspector, a ranking commissioned officer. Other members of the Headquarters Unit at the State Capitol are the Headquarters Sergeant and members in charge of the Criminal Identification Bureau, the Accident Prevention Bureau, the Radio Division, and the Division of Supplies and Accounting.

Company Headquarters and Detachments. The field operation is under the immediate command of four Captains, each having charge of a Company area representing about one-fourth of the State. The Captain of each Company is assisted by a Lieutenant, a First Sergeant, and a clerk. The Captain is responsible to the Superintendent for the enforcement of all laws, the investigation of crime, the protection of life and property, patrolling, investigation of motor vehicle accidents, operators' and chauffeurs' examinations, and the proper performance of duty and the maintenance of discipline in his command. These duties are carried out through the operation of sixty-four strategically located detachments or posts throughout the State.

Divisions and bureaus which are responsible for technical activity and supervision, investigation, traffic safety promotion, and clerical work are:

Radio Division, which, with state owned stations, mobile units and two-way FM- equipped patrol cars, has made possible the speedy apprehension of criminals, recovery of property, prevention of crimes, quick release of innocent persons, prompt relief in disasters, reduction of accidents, greater internal efficiency in war time, and generally more effective maintenance of public order.

Criminal Identification Bureau, which centralizes all criminal records of the State, maintains a scientific crime detection laboratory, and aids other enforcement agencies, federal and state, in the solution of crime.

Accident Prevention Bureau, which makes statistical studies of traffic accidents to ascertain their causes, and maintains files for accident prevention through proper examination of drivers, processing of records for license revocation orders issued by the State Road Commission, inspection of school buses, and examination of school bus drivers.

Highway Safety Bureau, which promotes traffic safety education by means of news releases, radio programs and safety conferences, in cooperation with the safety engineers of the State Road Commission.

Division of Supplies, which maintains a supply depot at Department Headquarters in Charleston to serve the entire Department through disbursements to various company headquarters or detachments.

CONTINUOUS TRAINING REQUIRED

The job of policing—which was rendered more exacting by the demands of war—is complex, hazardous and often physically and mentally exhausting. The work ranges from pursuing hold-up men or hit-and-run drivers, painstaking investigation by scientific techniques, to making safety talks before clubs and associations. Moreover, periodic courses of training are required to assure an efficient police service. Members of the Criminal Identification Bureau take courses in crime detection at the FBI National Police Academy. Members avail themselves of long-term and refresher courses at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute. Such education, in addition to continuous departmental training, improves the performance of the police and guarantees a higher degree of public safety.

WARTIME ACTIVITIES

Wartime responsibilities laid a heavy strain upon the Department, at a time when its trained personnel was being reduced in number as members entered the armed forces. But the Department, recognizing that West Virginia was a strategic area on the home-front, not only trained its personnel in effective police methods to prevent sabotage, but promptly cooperated with federal enforcement and quasi-enforcement agencies in all matters relating to the common security. The Department investigated many complaints of enemy activity; aided the Selective Service and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the location of delinquent selectees; helped to safeguard the journey of numerous L.S.T. boats down the Ohio River by guarding bridges and locks to prevent sabotage; piloted military convoys across the State; aided the Civilian Defense through use of the Police radio net work in air raid alarm blackouts; investigated special cases of personnel to fill key positions in the production lines of vital defense plants; quickly distributed rationing coupons for the OPA in rural and remote communities; and enforced laws prohibiting gambling, prostitution, and other crimes against public morals, that were a direct threat to manpower so essential to victory. The fact that the State suffered not a single destructive incident from enemy activity in production or transportation during the war, and contributed effectively in civilian services and manpower, was attributable in no small measure to the vigilance and cooperation of the Department of Public Safety.

PEACETIME CHALLENGES

The Department, like all other human agencies, faces numerous peacetime challenges, many of them growing out of the war. Immediately after V-J Day the State experienced, for example, a distressing rise in the trend of traffic fatalities. This rise was due in large part to faulty motor vehicle equipment and the lifting of wartime restraints. To meet this situation and the problems of an unprecedented traffic volume, the State Police must employ all its authorized techniques of law enforcement and accident prevention, while promoting safety education in order to bring about a greater degree of voluntary law observance—the best guarantee of prevention, in the last analysis. The Department has taken cognizance of the aggravated problem of juvenile delinquency which has become a social menace to the State and Nation. Department personnel has been cooperating with school officials, youth organizations, civic groups and industrial organizations throughout the State in their efforts to meet this serious problem, through closer supervision of beer taverns, dance halls and other places of public amusement. While not expecting a "crime wave" to follow World War II, as after the first World War, the State Police will be prepared to cope firmly with any such development, in cooperation with county and federal enforcement agencies where such cooperation is deemed proper and necessary. For, as already stated, the Department of Public Safety is empowered by law to preserve the peace, protect life and property, prevent crime, and apprehend criminals.

ROADS

"HIGHWAYS AND RECONVERSION"

Reconversion time is here and with it comes the greatest transition this nation has ever known. As this abrupt change takes place, all eyes will be focused on highway departments, for they are expected to supply a crucial phase of the answer of whether this country can absorb its unemployed, and at the same time promote long awaited essential projects during this period of abnormalcy.

Like other highway departments throughout the nation, the West Virginia Road Commission has been hampered in its activities through the necessities of war. All but essential construction stopped shortly after the declaration of war and the Commission during these war years, confined itself to protecting its vast 33,000-mile system.

Today the story is entirely different. We have completed plans for projecting the largest construction program we have ever had, and as the Federal Highway Aid Act of 1944 assures us a three-year building program, all that is necessary now to inaugurate this program is release of these funds and a supply of new equipment.

Under the terms of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1944, West Virginia has been allocated for the first post-war year (which is the fiscal year ending after the emergency is declared over) $5,362,044 of Federal funds, which with the state matching money will give the Commission a construction fund of $10,734,088. Of this sum, $4,948,070 may be expended on the Federal Aid system: $4,160,634 on secondary and feeder roads which have been approved by the Public Roads Administration for inclusion in the Federal Aid secondary system; and $1,615,384 for Federal Aid highways within urban areas. However, it should be pointed out that from the Federal funds allotted for the aforementioned purposes, ten percent may be set aside for railroad grade separation projects and the Commission expressly intends to expend approximately $536,000 for this purpose.

While this post-war program awaits final Public Roads Administration approval, the Commission has prepared projects in one or more of these categories for every county in the State. They are to be released in accordance with their importance to the development of the state system.

In our future program we have included every feature of highway development. We will replace narrow and inadequate sections of our primary system with modern and up-to-date roads, eliminate hazardous and hair-pin curves and inadequate bridges as rapidly as possible. We hope to complete the railroad grade crossing elimination and to make good headway on the construction of city arterial routes. Also we plan to remove many traffic bottlenecks from the midst of our towns and villages.

More stress will be placed on our secondary system where we plan to spend most of the secondary Federal Aid allotment for the extending of the existing system of all-year surfaces by stabilizing unimproved secondary roads.

In this respect it might be pointed out that we plan to profit by past experiences and henceforth on these roads we will use 10-foot widths of stabilized surface with 5-foot shoulders, making a 20-foot graded width from ditch line to ditch line. Where traffic demands it wider surfaces and roadbeds will be constructed. However, for the most part these unimproved roads on our secondary system will not require more than the proposed 20-foot roadway.

Another feature of this method of construction will be the use of local materials wherever available. They will include creek gravel, chert and hard shale. Where local materials are not available we plan to use crusher run sandstone and limestone from local quarries or crushed limestone, slag and gravel from commercial sources. All these traffic bound surfaces will carry considerable traffic and to eliminate dust nuisance and reduce blading costs and loss of material, it will be necessary to provide at various intervals a treatment of chloride or road oil. As traffic increases, many of these surfaces will be given bituminous surface treatments.

West Virginia is today in a position, through this expanded post-war program, to absorb many of its more than 1,000 employees who have entered the armed services and plan to return to their former occupations. There will also be hundreds of young West Virginians in the service who have learned to operate bulldozers, tractors, scrapers and many other pieces of equipment used in road and airport building. Upon their return, these young men will be naturals to fit into any highway department or highway construction outfit.

Highway service is linked hand in hand with industrial, commercial and agricultural expansion which is inevitable in these next few years. A nation that has waited more than three years for new cars is in dire need of new roads, and to make a success of such a large highway construction program in 1946, everyone in the road building industry and profession must put his shoulder to the wheel to meet as rapidly as possible the forthcoming demands of traffic and unemployment.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

THE PUBLIC WELFARE LAW OF WEST VIRGINIA

Condensed Statement of Its Enactment, Its Purposes, and Its Services
(Compiled by the Public Assistance Staff)

By ROBERT F. ROTH, Director

The Public Welfare Law of West Virginia was enacted June 20, 1936, to take effect from passage, the Legislature "declaring itself eager to provide, so far as it is possible to do so, for the permanent protection of its citizens against the recurring misfortunes of life." The act modernized the statutory provisions relating to welfare services assembling them into a single intergrated system, and created the State Department of Public Assistance and a public assistance office in each county to administer the State's welfare services.

Provision is made for three general kinds of public welfare services:

1. Assistance to the extent necessary to safeguard a decent and healthful existence;
2. Treatment aimed at restoring health;
3. Service designed to protect the welfare of certain groups.

Cash assistance is made available in the following forms: Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Dependent Children, and General Relief. These types of cash assistance are financed entirely from the State and Federal funds. Primary financial responsibility for General Relief rests upon the counties, although State funds are available as appropriated by the Legislature for supplementation when county funds are insufficient. The eligibility requirements for cash assistance are established by the Public Welfare Law, and there are three requirements which are common to all four types of cash assistance: need, residence in the State, and the responsibility of certain relatives to assist an indigent person. The necessity for complying with these eligibility requirements readily differentiates the assistance through the department from pension plans.

Old Age Assistance

Old Age Assistance, as the name implies, is available only to needy persons when they become sixty-five years of age. Although the Public Welfare Law stipulates that a maximum monthly grant of $40 can be paid an Old Age Assistant recipient, the actual grant depends upon an individual's needs and the funds appropriated for assistance purposes.

Aid to the Blind

Aid to the blind can be granted only to those persons with extremely limited vision. The degree of vision which enables an applicant to qualify for this form of assistance is set forth in the Public Welfare Law and is determined by medical examination.

Aid to Dependent Children

Aid to dependent children is designed to prevent the breaking up of homes when children are deprived of parental support because of a parent's death, absence from home, or physical or mental incapacity. This form of assistance has made it possible for thousands of children to remain in their homes under the supervision of their mothers, with opportunity to obtain education and parental care.

General Relief

Needy persons who do not qualify for any other form of assistance may be provided for through the General Relief Program. Treatment to restore health for those in need is provided through three separate programs; general medical care and hospitalization, adult physical rehabilitation, and crippled children's services.

General Medical Care

General medical care is provided persons, irrespective of age, on a needs basis, and includes treatment by physicians, surgery, dental care, and the fitting of glasses.

Crippled Children's Services

The State Department provides medical, surgical, and other corrective treatment to those children for whom adequate care, treatment and rehabilitation is not available from other than public services.

Three kinds of services are available to protect the welfare of certain groups: children, veterans and persons with visual defects. These services are available to any resident of West Virginia, irrespective of financial circumstances.

Child Welfare

The Public Welfare Law gives the State Department of Public Assistance wide responsibility for the protection, care and treatment of any child under eighteen years of age who is destitute, homeless, or abandoned; has not proper parental care or guardianship; is living in an improper place; violates a law or municipal ordinance; engages in an occupation which is in violation of law, etc. This includes supervision of children in their own homes or in foster homes; children who are being adopted; children on probation from juvenile courts or who are paroled from state correctional institutions. The Public Welfare Law charges the State Department with licensing and supervision of institutions giving care to children.

Conservation of Vision and Prevention of Blindness

Service to persons with visual handicaps is aimed at helping them to secure treatment, education, employment, and in making satisfactory adjustments to their handicaps so that they can lead a happy and productive life. To the extent of available funds, treatment is provided to restore vision, or prevent loss of vision. Employers are contacted to enlist their support for safety devices that reduce industrial hazards to vision and to assist visually handicapped persons in obtaining employment.

General Statement

The confidential character of Public Assistance records is set forth in Sec. 16, Art. 11, Ch. 9, of the Public Welfare Law, in order to prevent misuse of Public Assistance lists and records.

Assistance and service through the Department of Public Assistance are administered through offices located in each county seat. County offices take applications and establish eligibility for the various assistance programs under the immediate supervision of county councils. Each county council consists of five members, four of whom are appointed by the Governor, all of whom serve without pay. The president of each county court is a member ex officio of the county council, and not more than three members can belong to the same political party. The State Department directs and supervises the work of county councils and their employees. According to the law, "no employee shall be a candidate for or hold any other public office or trust, nor shall he be a member of any political committee, nor shall he serve as an election official." The law requires the State Director "to adopt a merit system of personnel management in conformity with federal legislation and promulgate in connection therewith a classification and compensation plan."

PUBLIC HEALTH

HEALTH DEPARTMENT PREPARING FOR POST-WAR EXPANSION

Now that the global war has been won, the West Virginia State Health Department is making preparations for the post-war era. During the present transition period the organization of the central health department staff has been completed. The next phase of the accelerated program will be to absorb into local health departments the returning veterans who have had public health training or who are suitable for training.

The dearth of qualified public health personnel now available or in sight emphasizes the need for the training program now being inaugurated by the State Health Department with the assistance of the federal government. Two health officers are receiving a full year's training in a school of public health. The Director of the Bureau of Public Health Education and the Director of the Bureau of Dental Hygiene received their Master's degree in public health in June, 1945. Three scholarships have been offered to eligible college graduates for one year of training in public health education. Scholarships will be available to nurses for similar training and sanitarians have a training school in Morgantown. Some form of post-graduate professional training is offered to every member of the professional staff.

NEW PROGRAMS, BUREAUS, AND STAFF MEMBERS

The need for accelerated programs in venereal disease control, tuberculosis control, and dental hygiene was recognized and new independent bureaus were created by the Public Health Council. The Bureau of Public Health Education was expanded by the addition of a director and three public health education consultants. In addition to this, new quarters were obtained for the Bureau of Public Health Education. Space was thereby provided for a health department library for the first time in the history of the health department.

Since the most effective public health work is done by local health department staffs in the counties, new field personnel was added to assist the local health departments in organizing an effective public health program. A nutrition consultant was employed to assist other agencies in the development of a sound nutrition program. A field auditor and a hospital field representative were obtained to assist hospitals participating in the Emergency Maternal and Infant Care program. The Vital Statistics Division secured the services of a trained field investigator to encourage prompt reporting of vital statistics and the communicable diseases. The finest mobile X-Ray trailer in the country has been ordered and modern business machine equipment has been bought to bring the analysis of vital statistics up to date.

NEW HEALTH DEPARTMENT OFFICES

The overcrowding of the present office facilities allotted to the health department necessitated the rental of three additional six-room office suites for the division of maternal hygiene, the bureau of venereal disease control, and the bureau of public health education. Although 70% of the health department personnel is now outside the state capitol in six different buildings, efficiency has been maintained by providing messenger service throughout the day.

The State Hygienic Laboratory, now housed in two converted frame structures, has been deluged with requests for analyses from private physicians and local health departments. As the practice of medicine gradually evolves from an art into a science more and more emphasis will be placed on laboratory diagnosis. An unbearable burden will be placed on this overworked division unless a modern laboratory building is obtained in the not too distant future.

Immediate Public Health Objectives:

1. The ten leading causes of death in West Virginia for 1944 were:

Heart disease	3,850	Nephritis	1,059
Cancer	1,525	Tuberculosis	758
Intercranial lesions	1,492	Premature births	604
Accidents	1,463	Diarrhea and Enteritis	327
Pneumonia and Influenza	1,207	Diabetes Mellitus	316

The immediate objective of the health department will be to prevent those diseases in the above list for which means of prevention are now available. These include pneumonia, tuberculosis, premature births, diarrhea, diabetes, some cases of cancer, and some of the deaths due to degenerative diseases of vascular origin.

2. The second immediate objective will be to institute research studies which will lead to a discovery of the causes and means of preventing the other leading causes of deaths.

3. The final objective will be to produce a healthful environment in which all West Virginians may earn a livelihood, raise their families, and enjoy living.

CONCLUSION

Now that the attention of the public has been focused on the need for preventive medical services by the rejection rate in the armed forces it will be possible to develop the preventive services that are warranted by present day medical and scientific knowledge.

The time has come when modern medical and surgical care, stressing the prevention of disease and physical defects, must become the birthright of every citizen. The accomplishment of this objective will require the appropriation of substantial sums of money, the training of a greatly increased number of public health workers and physicians, and the active cooperation of an enlightened public.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

CABELL S. DAVIS, Director

1. HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

Federal Legislation

The Federal Social Security Law was enacted by Congress and approved in August, 1935. Titles III and IX of this law are the original statutes pertaining to unemployment compensation having a direct bearing on the West Virginia Unemployment Compensation Law. Title III provides for federal grants to states to cover the expenses of administering state laws and to establish certain minimum standards with which the state law must conform in order to qualify for federal grants. Title IX is an enabling act that authorizes a federal excise tax on all employers having eight or more individuals in their employment. The tax rate with respect to employment under Title IX of the federal act is as follows: One per cent on total wages payable for 1937; three per cent on total wages payable in 1938 and thereafter. The Act provides that a liable employer in a state that has adopted an unemployment compensation law may deduct the amount of the contribution paid to such state from the amount of excise tax payable to the federal government, not to exceed, however, ninety per cent of such federal excise tax.

West Virginia Law

On March 1, 1935, the Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 10 providing for a joint committee of twelve members to study social security legislation and to report its recommendation to the Governor was adopted. On December 14, the second Extraordinary Session of the State Legislature of 1936 was called together for the express purpose of enacting, in conformity with the requirements of the Federal Social Security Act, such legislation as it deemed wise, dealing with Unemployment Compensation. The West Virginia Unemployment Compensation Law, Chapter 21-a of the Code of West Virginia, was passed December 16, 1936. The purpose of the law as expressed in the act itself is:—"to provide reasonable and effective means for the promotion of social and economic security by reducing as far as possible the hazards of unemployment."

At each succeeding session of the Legislature amendments have been made dealing with contribution rates, benefit tables, disqualifications, appeal procedure, etc. An amendment made in 1943 provide for combining of wage credits which have been earned by an individual in different states. As last amended in 1945, the Law provides for contribution rates ranging from a maximum of 2.7% down to a minimum of 0.5%; benefits are provided ranging from a minimum of $8.00 to a maximum of $20.00 for a maximum duration of 21 weeks; and the eligibility earnings in the base period were raised from $250.00 to $300.00. It is now made mandatory upon the Director to suspend decreased rates whenever the trust fund falls to $35,000.00 and to supersede such suspension whenever the fund again reaches $40,000.00.

2. ORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT

In conformity with the law, a Director was appointed with direction over all the administrative activities of the department and with authority to create other divisions than the Unemployment Compensation and the Employment Service Divisions.

The Director saw fit to create:

- A Legal Division
- A Fiscal Division (Business Management)
- A Research and Statistics Division
- A Personnel Division
- A Tabulating Division

The Unemployment Compensation Division is subdivided into five main sections as follows:

- Contributions Accounting Section
- Benefit Section
- Field Investigation Section
- Local Office Claims Section
- Readjustment Allowance Section

On January 1, 1942, the Employment Service Division was transferred by Executive Order of the President to the Federal Government for the duration of the war.

Personnel

The personnel of the Department is governed by the Merit System. The Merit System provides rules for recruitment, terminations, classifications, salary range, salary increases, annual leave, sick leave, etc.

Due to the decrease in unemployment in the State and to employees entering into the military service and private industry, personnel decreased during the fiscal year, July 1, 1942-June 30, 1943, 30%. As of June 30, 1942, the Department had 215 employees and in June, 1943, had 150 employees, a decrease of 65 individuals. In 1944 personnel was reduced to approximately 100 and was retained at or near this figure until the defeat of Japan, when a small increase in personnel became necessary because of increased unemployment.

Readjustment Allowance Benefits for Veterans

Title V of the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance Act which allows unemployment compensation benefits (readjustment allowance benefits) to veterans of World War II, became effective September 4, 1944. As provided in the Act, the Veterans' Administrator and the Unemployment Compensation Director entered into an agreement whereby this State takes claims and writes checks for readjustment allowances. Funds for payment of readjustment allowances are furnished by the Veterans' Administration through the Federal Treasury. The procedure is similar to that developed for state unemployment compensation claims and benefits. As of August 31, 1945, the Department had written 34,232 checks amounting to $684,609.00 for unemployed veterans of World War II. Title V has similar requirements to the State Unemployment Compensation Law in that a veteran must be able to work, available for work, and must not refuse to accept suitable work. Money for administration of Title V is furnished by the Veterans' Administration.

DON'T FORGET

You've probably heard these things many times before, but because they're so important to you we'll repeat:

Report to Selective Service Board

Not only because the law requires it, but also because it will help get many things due you, don't fail to report to your local Selective Service Board within 10 days after discharge. Ex-servicewomen should do likewise if they desire aid in getting reemployment.

Apply for Old Job Within 90 Days

If you fail to do this, your former employer is under no obligation to give you your old job back.

Pay Your Government Insurance Premiums

Your National Service Life Insurance is a good thing to keep, so be sure to pay the premiums direct to the Veterans Administration within a month after leaving the service.

Record Your Discharge—It's Free

Probably the most important document you'll ever possess is your honorable discharge, for that is the only real proof of your service when it comes to getting what you've earned. DON'T carry it with you and take a chance on losing it. The County Clerk in your home county will record it without charge. Then put the original where it is safe from fire, theft or loss—such as in a safety deposit box. You can use photostatic copies in making application for most benefits.

Put Your Records in Order

Besides your discharge, here are some other things which may be needed in obtaining benefits and which should be kept in a safe place where they can always be found:

Army or Marine Corps serial number	Birth certificate (self)
Navy Service or file number	Birth certificate (wife)
Coast Guard Service number	Birth certificate (children)
Disability claim "C" number	Marriage certificate
Insurance Policies	Any divorce decrees
Social Security card, if any	Last will and testament
Selective Service registration card

Remember: Even if you don't need any of these things now, some day they will be vitally important to you. So play safe—take care of them NOW.

Information and Assistance

Just to make sure that you will encounter a minimum of trouble in getting what's coming to you, various organizations and agencies have been designated to furnish information on benefits available under Federal and State laws, and to assist you in making application. Don't hesitate to call on them, because they're there to help YOU—the G.I. who has done so much for them and all Americans.

These agencies include:

- *West Virginia Department of Veterans Affairs, Charleston.
- Selective Service Local Boards.
- U. S. Employment Service local offices.
- Veterans Administration Facility, Huntington.
- Local Posts, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans.
- American Red Cross Chapters.

In addition, special Community Information Service Centers are being established in various cities in West Virginia to help veterans and dislocated war workers generally in finding what they're after. Centers in operation at the time this booklet goes to press are:

Kanawha County Veterans Information Center	Veterans Service Office
Kanawha County Court House	American Legion Building
Charleston 1, W. Va.	Hollidays Cove, W. Va.

Veterans Referral Center
Marion County Public Library Bldg.
Fairmont, W. Va.

*Regional offices are to be set up wherever necessary in the State, but since the act creating the department did not become effective until July 1, 1945, this had not yet been done when this booklet was prepared.

State Laws You'll Want to Know

Besides creating the Department of Veterans Affairs, the West Virginia Legislature enacted some other laws which are beneficial to veterans. For instance:

If you have an honorable discharge and want to take a merit system examination for a position in such state departments as Public Assistance, Health, Unemployment Compensation, Vocational Rehabilitation, or the forestry and enforcement divisions of the Conservation Commission, you will be given a preference of five points added to your regular numerical score, provided you make a passing grade of 70. If you have a service-connected disability, you will be allowed an additional five points, or a total of 10 points.

If you want to get caught up in some elementary or high school subject or subjects, your county board of education is authorized to establish special classes for adults. The board may charge a tuition fee, not exceeding the actual cost of operation.

If you're still in the service and happen to be home on furlough, you can hunt and fish in West Virginia without a license. Your leave or furlough papers will serve in place of the regular hunting and fishing license.

If you have a state operator's permit to drive an automobile, it will remain valid for six months after your honorable discharge.

If you want to record your honorable discharge—as you should do, by all means—your local county clerk will do it without charge.

If you, or your dependents, need any records—such as marriage, divorce, adoption, birth or death records—your local county clerk will furnish them without charge when they are necessary to obtain Federal or State benefits.

If you were a member of the state teachers retirement system, or the retirement systems of any police or fire departments at the time you entered the service, you will be credited for time served in the armed forces, just as if there were no interruption of your employment under these retirement systems.

Veterans Administration

The Veterans Administration handles most of the things available to you under the G. I. Bill of Rights and other Federal laws. We're not going into a discussion of these benefits, because the Federal Government is taking care of that. We just want to tell West Virginians how to find the proper Veterans' Administration office.

G. I. BENEFITS

If you desire to make application for benefits available through the Veterans Administration—such as hospitalization, outpatient treatment and prosthetic appliances, compensation and pensions, vocational rehabilitation, education, or loans—it should be done one of the places listed below:

READJUSTMENT ALLOWANCES

While it is a function of the Veterans Administration, the payment of Readjustment Allowances to unemployed veterans is handled in this State by the West Virginia Department of Unemployment Compensation, Charleston 5. Application should be made to the nearest office of the United States Employment Service.

NOTE: At the time this pamphlet is going to press, the Veterans Administration Facility at Huntington is making arrangements for establishment of a Branch Office at Clarksburg. The functions of this branch office will be to conduct physical examinations and authorize outpatient treatment, and it will have a contact unit to serve veterans who call there.

Selective Service

While the law requires you to report to your local selective Service Board within 10 days after discharge this mandatory feature is rather beside the point because your Local Board can give you a lot of help. Each Local Board has a reemployment committee which will help you get your old job back, or a new one if you desire. They also can help you generally in getting readjusted to civilian life, for they maintain liaison with various governmental agencies providing benefits as well as with the armed forces.

State Vocational Rehabilitation

If you have a non-service-connected disability or for some other reason are ineligible for vocational rehabilitation under the Veterans Administration, you may obtain medical attention, prosthetic appliances, training, or other service necessary to prepare you for gainful work through the Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the State Board of Education.

This service, whose chief objective is to help people overcome a handicap and place them in a remunerative occupation, primarily is a civilian service and therefore is available to dishonorably discharged veterans, war workers, or any other civilians who have a disability or illness which impairs their ability to work, regardless of how the disability was suffered.

The mentally as well as the physically disabled are covered by this program, which includes special services for the blind, the homebound, or others who are severely handicapped. Besides medical, surgical or psychiatric treatment, the service also provides transportation, maintenance while in training, occupational licenses, tools and equipment, job placement, and various other kinds of assistance.

Where to Apply: Application may be made at the Administrative Office, Capital City Building, Charleston (Telephone 30-185), or at any one of four field offices.

If you live in Boone, Cabell, Clay, Fayette, Greenbrier, Jackson, Kanawha, Lincoln, Logan, Mason, Mingo, Nicholas, Pocahontas, Putnam, Raleigh, Roane, Summers, Wayne, or Webster County, apply at District Office, Capital City Building, Charleston; Telephone 30-185.

If you live in McDowell, Mercer, Monroe, or Wyoming County, apply at Branch Office, 308 Ramsey Street, Bluefield; Telephone 9850.

Educational Opportunities

Federal booklets will tell you what is coming to you in the way of education under the G. I. Bill, so the object of this chapter is to tell you where you can apply these benefits in West Virginia.

While the G. I. Bill deals primarily with college education, the 1945 Legislature authorized county boards of education to establish special classes in elementary and high school subjects for veterans and other adults who need such education, possibly with the idea of preparing for college training. Full information may be obtained from your county school superintendent or school principal.

West Virginia Bar Association

This association has a War Service Committee which has in nearly every West Virginia community a volunteer attorney to render, without financial reward, proper legal advice to servicemen and women (while in such service) and their dependents.

In addition, the association is making plans to give special assistance to lawyers returning from the armed forces.

Dean Thomas P. Hardman of West Virginia University heads a special committee which is studying the advisability of holding refresher courses for these lawyers.

J. Ross Hunter of Charleston, executive secretary of the association, has been directed to establish a clearing house for information concerning both employers and employees so as to aid returning lawyers in getting readjusted in their civilian profession.
