

West Virginia Traffic Stop Study: 2008 Interim Report

Overview of Statewide Findings

Background

In response to concerns voiced by WV citizens and the WV Legislature regarding allegations of racial profiling by law enforcement, the West Virginia Legislature passed the Racial Profiling Data Collection Act [W. Va. Code §17G-2-3]. The Racial Profiling Data Collection Act and Legislative rule §149 CSR 5 required all law enforcement officers to begin gathering information on all traffic stops beginning January 1, 2007. Pursuant to W. Va. Code §17G-2-3, the Legislature mandated the Governor's Committee on Crime, Delinquency and Correction [hereafter referred to as the Division of Criminal Justice Services or (DCJS) as staff of the Governor's Committee] and the Criminal Justice Statistical Analysis Center, a unit of the Governor's Committee, to develop a methodology for the study of law enforcement traffic stops in the state, conduct an analysis of the data collected, and produce an interim and final report to the Legislature.

W. Va. Code §17G-2-3 and Legislative rule §149 CSR 5 established standards for the collection, reporting, compilation and analysis of data, for the purpose of studying the possible practice of racial profiling by law enforcement in West Virginia. Beginning January 1, 2007, each time a law enforcement officer stopped the operator of a motor vehicle for a violation of any motor vehicle statute or ordinance officers were required to complete a West Virginia Motor Vehicle Stop Form (MVSF). The MVSF gathers information on various elements of the stop, including the race of the vehicle driver and any passengers (see Motor Vehicle Stop Form).

This report presents the results of analysis on traffic stop data collected by law enforcement officers. The purpose of the analysis is to provide statistics that summarize whether and/or to what extent racial disparity is present in law enforcement traffic stops and post-stop outcomes (i.e., searches, dispositions, and contraband hit rates) by law enforcement agency. This report provides statistics for traffic stop data collected by law enforcement officers over a six-month period between April and September 2007.

Data Collection

The collection of reliable and valid data is essential for proper analysis of traffic stops. Efforts to ensure the quality of data gathered often involves: selecting an appropriate mechanism for data collection, developing the data collection instrument, conducting a pilot test, training officers to use the data collection instrument(s), minimizing officer disengagement, and developing a data auditing system. However, many traffic stop studies have been plagued by poor data quality because they have not been able to develop adequate mechanisms for ensuring data quality due to the sheer size and scope of the effort. There are a number of strategies and common practices available for monitoring data quality, however, many of these techniques proved to be very difficult to implement given the statewide focus of the current analysis.¹ Nonetheless, considerable effort was given to monitoring traffic stop submissions in an attempt to maintain some level of data quality.

Efforts to Improve Data Quality

Legislative rule §149 CSR 5 charged the WV Division of Motor Vehicles with the task of ensuring the accurate and reliable collection of traffic stop data submitted by law enforcement officers across the state. The Division of Motor Vehicles secured a vendor for the scanning and data collection, developed the Motor Vehicle Stop Form, printed and distributed the forms, instructions and a training CD to every law enforcement agency in the state. Each agency was asked to designate a contact person. While a majority of law enforcement agencies did provide a contact person, there were several who did not respond to the DMV's initial effort. The DMV maintained monthly communication with each participating agency. Each agency was advised of the number of submissions, rejections and percentages of rejections for each month. If submissions appeared to be lower than past submissions or lower than the submissions of agencies near the same size and similar mission, they were identified as "low reporting" agencies. This information was communicated with the chief executive of that agency.

To better ensure compliance and provide law enforcement agencies with all necessary information on completing and submitting MVSFs, the DMV developed a webpage with basic information on the Racial Profiling Data Collection Act and training (For more information on MVSF instructions and training procedures, see WV Department of Transportation Racial Profiling Website). The DMV website continues to host a copy of the Law, Legislative Rule, PowerPoint training presentation on completing the MVSF, frequently asked questions, contact information, directions based on agency size, list of county numbers, and links to every other involved agency. Recently, the DMV initiated electronic submission of the MVSFs and currently between 20-30% of all stops are submitted electronically. The DMV plans to supply every agency with their yearly traffic stop totals and ask them to certify the number of stops reported.

Preparing the Traffic Stop Data for Analysis

Law enforcement officers began submitting MVSFs to the Division of Motor Vehicles on January 1, 2007. Submission of MVSFs involved mailing the forms to the DMV to be scanned and read into a database.² Once a MVSF was scanned, the form would either be accepted or rejected depending on whether it contained missing information or could be read by the scanning software. If rejected, the MVSF would be sent back to the submitting agency for correction and resubmission (see MVSFs Rejected by Variable). Only accepted MVSFs were eligible for analysis and included in the final sample of traffic stops. As of December 2007, a total of 253,877 MVSFs were submitted to the DMV. Of these, a total of 196,294 or 77.3% were accepted for analysis (see Total Number of Traffic Stops and Rejection Rates). A total of 69 law enforcement agencies did not report a single traffic stop as of December 2007 (see Non-Reporting Law Enforcement Agencies).

Once MVSFs were submitted to the DMV by law enforcement agencies, several additional steps were necessary to prepare the traffic stop data for analysis. A review of the MVSFs submitted by month further revealed that the number of MVSFs rejected declined considerably after the first few months of data collection. Given the large number of rejected forms in January through March, these forms were excluded from the analysis due to validity concerns (see Total Number of Traffic Stops and Rejection Rates). Moreover, the number of traffic stops reported after October was considerably lower than the previous nine months due to a lag in the submission of paper MVSFs and the time involved in the scanning process. Hence, the traffic stops made in April through September were chosen for analysis and are included in this report. A total of 134,854 MVSFs, plus an additional 2,829 electronic records were submitted and subsequently accepted during this six-month period for a total of 137,683 traffic stops.

Of the 137,671 accepted traffic stops from April through September, a total of 106,225 or 77.2% were of vehicles with WV registration (see Vehicle Registration by Agency).³ These 106,225 traffic stops served as a basis for the statewide analysis. Given that the benchmark by which traffic stops are compared in this report utilizes adjusted Census data, the 31,446 traffic stops involving vehicles with out-of-state or no registration were removed from the analysis (see Out-of-State Traffic Stops by Agency and Race). Finally, agencies that reported fewer than 50 traffic stops during this six-month period were excluded from the agency level analysis (see Agencies Reporting Fewer than 50 Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by Race). For a distribution of the total number of stops by agency, including agencies with less than 50 reported stops, see Traffic Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by Agency and Traffic Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by County of Stop. For all agency level analysis, a total of 104,478 traffic stops were examined and the results are shown in all Key Disparity Indicator and Frequency Information tables by agency. These stops were submitted by 143 city/county level agencies and 64 state police detachments (agencies with over 50 total stops).

Sub-area Analysis of Traffic Stops

Prior research has shown the importance of conducting sub-area analyses of traffic stop data. Sub-area analysis deals with the specific location of traffic stops and often involves the examination of data gathered on a smaller geographic unit than a city or county such as Census tract or block. Sub-area analysis has been shown to be important because racial disparities may be very strong in some areas, but go largely undetected at the aggregate level. This becomes particularly important in areas (cities or counties) with large resident populations, greater racial/ethnic heterogeneity, and in areas with differing levels of stop activity by law enforcement. Such an analysis also controls for the volume of stopping activity which may bias results when aggregated. Therefore, when it is feasible and warranted, it is important to conduct sub-area analyses so that it is possible to compare areas with equal levels of vehicle stop activity and level of minority representation.

For the purposes of this report, six principal cities (defined as located within a MSA), the City of Beckley, and sheriff's departments located in the counties in which these cities reside were selected for the patrol area analysis. Each of these agencies are located within a MSA, generally reported more traffic stops, and submitted patrol area information for analysis. While not located within a MSA, Beckley PD and the Raleigh County Sheriff's Department were added to the patrol area analysis due to the large number of stops reported during the time period analyzed. This also allowed for agency representation from the southern part of the state. Agencies included in the sub-area or patrol area analysis are: Charleston PD, Kanawha Co SO, Huntington PD, Cabell Co SO, Parkersburg PD, Wood Co SO, Martinsburg PD, Berkeley Co SO, Morgantown PD, Monongalia Co SO, Wheeling PD, Ohio Co SO, Beckley PD, and Raleigh Co SO (see Sub-area Analysis of Selected Principal City and County Law Enforcement Agencies).

Benchmarking with Adjusted Census Data

In order to determine whether the number of minority traffic stops is disproportionate to what would be expected if no bias was present, traffic stops need to be compared to a benchmark.

The benchmark serves as a comparison group for the stop information collected on MVSFs and is simply the “expected probability” of being stopped by police. That is, the benchmark represents the “expected” rate of minority stops, assuming no bias. While there are many types of benchmarks used in racial profiling studies, the present analysis compares traffic stops to adjusted Census data. Given that all police agencies and officers across the entire state were required to submit information on traffic stops, an adjusted Census benchmarking approach was the only feasible method for analyzing these traffic stops.⁴

For the purposes of this report, law enforcement traffic stops were compared to 2000 Census data adjusted by vehicle ownership. The Census data was adjusted by vehicle ownership in an effort to compensate for the differences in the residential and driving population. Information on household vehicle ownership was used to obtain an estimate of the number residents that owned vehicles by race. In order to make the appropriate adjustments, household data on vehicle ownership from the 2000 Census was converted to reflect vehicle ownership on an individual level. Information on the number of households without vehicles and the average number of individuals per household by race was used to adjust the residential population to obtain a better estimate of the driving population.

Efforts to obtain an appropriate comparison for reported traffic stops were further complicated by the need to account for a variety of law enforcement agencies with different levels of jurisdiction and population size. For most agencies, traffic stops were compared to the adjusted population for the entire city or county in which each agency was located.⁵ While the state police technically has statewide jurisdiction, a vast majority of reported traffic stops occurred in the county where the detachment was stationed. Thus, traffic stops reported by the state police were benchmarked to the adjusted Census population for the county in which the detachment was located. In addition, two agencies were benchmarked to the adjusted Census population for the state, WVSP Special Ops and the Public Services Commission - Charleston due to having statewide jurisdiction and reporting stops in multiple counties. Likewise, two campus police departments reported greater than 50 traffic stops and are included in the city/county frequency and indicator tables. These agencies were benchmarked to the city in which they are located (Marshall University Police to Huntington and West Virginia University Police to Morgantown).

Finally, six principal cities (defined as being located within a MSA) and the sheriff’s departments for the county in which these cities are located were selected for sub-area analysis. This involved the analysis of multiple patrol areas for agencies that generally had more reported stops, were located in areas with larger minority residential populations, and had considerable variability in stopping activity in their respective jurisdictions. Agencies included in the patrol area analysis are: Charleston PD, Kanawha Co SO, Huntington PD, Cabell Co SO, Parkersburg PD, Wood Co SO, Martinsburg PD, Berkeley Co SO, Morgantown PD, Monongalia Co SO, Wheeling PD, Ohio Co SO, Beckley PD, and Raleigh Co SO. Census tract information was used to establish benchmarks for each of the patrol areas designated by these agencies.⁶

Calculation and Interpretation of Key Indicator Tables

A total of 106,225 traffic stops reported by law enforcement from April 1, 2007 through September 30, 2007 served as a basis for the statewide analysis. For all agency level analysis, a total of 104,478 traffic stops submitted by law enforcement were examined. These traffic stops represented 143 city/county level agencies and 64 state police detachments. For the purposes of this report, all reactive as well as proactive stops are considered in the analysis.⁷

The analysis is divided into two parts: 1) a stop analysis which examines “who is stopped” by race and 2) a post-stop analysis that examines “what happens after a person is stopped” by police. This involves analyzing whether disparity is present in the number of searches, search/disposition outcomes, and contraband hit rates.

To ascertain whether disparity is present in traffic stops or post-stop outcomes, it is necessary to compare the traffic stops to an appropriate benchmark and calculate a variety of indices and ratios that assist in the interpretation of the results. Such indices and ratios assist in drawing conclusions about disparity in stops and outcomes but not the cause of the disparity. That is, even when racial disparity is demonstrated in traffic stops using these calculations, the cause(s) of the disparity is not often known (and may never be known) based on the current data available. As a result, it is unclear whether any disparity in traffic stops or outcomes across race is due to police bias or other possibly legitimate factors associated with law enforcement practices. Nonetheless, the calculation of such indices and ratios will aid in the interpretation of whether disparity is present or absent in traffic stops and outcomes across law enforcement agencies. The following is a brief description of calculation and proper interpretation for each of the indices and ratios presented in this report:⁸

Stop Disparity Index. This index is used to estimate the differences between the “actual” and “expected” rates of traffic stops for different racial groups. Using traffic stop data as the numerator and benchmarks as the denominator, an index can be calculated to identify the presence or absence of disparity. A disparity index of 1.0 indicates no disparity. A disproportionality index that is greater than 1.0 indicates that the rate of stops for particular groups is greater than expected based on the benchmark. A disproportionality index that is less than 1.0 indicates that the rates of traffic stops for particular groups is less than expected based on the benchmark. The larger the absolute size of the disproportionality index, the larger the disparity between the actual and expected rate of stops. A disparity index of 0 indicates that no stops were reported for that racial group and thus no comparison to the benchmark can be made. The stop disparity index is calculated by dividing the percentage of total traffic stops by the benchmark (i.e., percentage of total stops / benchmark).

Stop Disparity Ratio. While the disproportionality index provides a general comparison between minority and majority groups, it is not easily interpretable. In addition to a disparity index, therefore, a disparity ratio is also calculated for the analysis presented in this report. A ratio is calculated by comparing each minority racial group separately (numerator) to the “white” racial group (denominator).⁹ A disparity ratio provides a more clear interpretation of the likelihood of a minority driver receiving an outcome when compared to a majority driver (i.e., “white” driver). As with the disproportionality index, a ratio of 1.0 indicates no disparity, while values above 1.0 suggest a disproportionate outcome for the minority group. The larger the absolute size of the disproportionality ratio, the larger the disparity between the actual and expected rate of stops. For example, a disparity ratio of 1.56 for the black racial group indicates that blacks are stopped 1.56 times more than whites. Alternatively, this can be stated as “if you are black, you are 1.56 times more likely to be stopped by police than if you are white” or “for every white person stopped, 1.56 blacks are stopped.” The stop disparity ratio is calculated by dividing the stop disparity index for each minority racial group by the stop disparity index for the majority racial group or, in this case, whites (i.e., stop disparity index minority / stop disparity index majority). A stop disparity ratio of 0 indicates that either no stops were reported for a particular minority group or that there were no stops of the majority group (whites) for comparison.

While examining the disparity in actual traffic stops is important, concerns of disparate policing practices do not end with the initial traffic stop. Instead, post-stop outcomes are an important consideration of any traffic stop data collection effort because the potential exists for differential treatment based on the drivers' race after the initial stop has taken place. Therefore, in addition to benchmark comparisons of traffic stop data, analyses of post-stop outcomes (e.g., dispositions and searches) must be conducted. Similar to a disparity index and ratio for traffic stops, these calculations can also be produced for searches. However, instead of comparing traffic stops to a benchmark, search indices and ratios utilize the total number of stops compared to the total number of searches. Interpretation of the search index and ratio remains the same.

Search Disparity Index. Using the percentage of total searches as the numerator and the percentage of total traffic stops as the denominator, an index can be calculated to identify the presence or absence of disparity in law enforcement searches. Interpreted in the same way as the stop disparity index, a disproportionality index that is greater than 1.0 indicates that the rate of searches for a particular racial group is greater than expected based on the percentage of total traffic stops for each group. A disparity index of 0 indicates that no searches were conducted for that racial group. The search disparity index is calculated by dividing the percentage of total searches by the percentage of total stops (i.e., percentage of total searches / percentage of total stops).

Search Disparity Ratio. Similar to the calculation of disparity ratios based on stops, the calculation of a disparity ratio for searches is also possible. A ratio of 1.0 indicates no disparity in searches, while values above 1.0 suggest a disproportionate outcome for the minority group. The larger the absolute size of the disproportionality ratio, the larger the disparity between the actual and expected rate of searches. The search disparity ratio is calculated by dividing the search disparity index for each minority racial group by the search disparity index for whites. In this regard, whites form the reference group for which the other racial groups are compared. A search disparity ratio of 0 indicates that either no searches were conducted for a particular minority group or that there were no searches of the majority group (whites) for comparison.

Additional methods for assessing post-stop outcomes involve the simple comparison of search rates and outcomes such as citations/arrests and whether contraband was found as the result of a search. Such analyses examine differences in outcomes for different types of drivers. Thus, it is important to examine all individuals stopped by police to determine the proportion of those individuals who are searched, and subsequently the proportion of those searched individuals who were discovered to be carrying or transporting contraband (i.e., contraband hit rate). If drivers were searched strictly based on legal factors and suspicions unrelated to race, one would expect similar percentages of searches resulting in seizures across racial groups. Moreover, disposition information including whether an arrest/citation was given to a driver versus other possible dispositions can be analyzed to determine whether disparity is present in dispositions by race. This is done by simply comparing the citation/arrest rate across the different racial groups.

Search Rate. The search rate simply compares the rate of searches across each racial group. Disparity in searches is indicated by large differences in the percentage of minority versus majority motorists searched as the result of a traffic stop. The search rate is calculated by dividing the total number of searches by the total number of stops then multiplied by 100 [i.e., (number of total searches / number of total stops) *100].

Citation/Arrest rate. This calculation compares the dispositions received by motorist across racial groups. If large differences in dispositions are present across racial groups, disparity may be present. The citation/arrest rate is calculated by dividing the total number of citation/arrests by the number of total stops then multiplied by 100 [number of citation/arrests / number of total stops) *100].

Finally, researchers can use “hit rates” to determine if unjustified disparity is present. Hit rates are the percentage of searches that result in a hit (i.e., having actually found contraband of some sort). In conducting an analysis of hit rates it is possible to determine whether searches are more productive for one racial group than another and, in turn, if possible unjustified disparity is present. If only “evidence-based searches” rather than race is being used as reasons to warrant searches, then the assumption is that “hit rates” should be similar to the proportion of searches for each racial group. When a high search rate is found for a particular racial group, coupled with a low “hit rate,” such a result would suggest that further exploration might be warranted. For example, if searches of black motorists are “less productive” as indicated by a low hit rate compared to searches of white motorist then unjustified disparity may be present, particularly if the search rate for black motorist is disproportionately higher when compared to whites. To conduct such an analysis involves a simple comparison of searches that result in seizures across racial groups.

Contraband hit rate. The contraband hit rate is related to whether something was found as a result of a vehicle/passenger search. The contraband hit rate is calculated by dividing the total number of contraband hits by the total number of searches then multiplied by 100 [i.e., number of contraband hits / number of total searches) *100].

Summary of Statewide Results, 2008

A total of 106,225 traffic stops of WV registered vehicles were accepted for analysis from 312 state, county, and local law enforcement agencies during the April through September 2007 time period. Of these, 97.8% (103,838) were submitted using the paper forms. The remaining 2.2% (2,387) were submitted through the electronic system which was implemented in July 2007.

A greater proportion of stops were made in the month of May due to a targeted enforcement effort. Otherwise, there was on average 16,867 accepted stops reported each month during this six-month time period.

More stops occurred between the hours of 4:00 PM and 11:00 PM. The greatest number of stops was reported during the 9:00 PM hour (6.9%). On average about 4.5% of stops occurred each hour between 8:00 AM and 3:00 PM. Few stops were reported during the overnight and early morning hours.

By far the majority of stops occurred on US/WV routes (62.0%). Just over 20.0% of stops were on city streets (21.8%), while 10.9% of stops took place on an interstate roadway. The remaining 5.3% were reported as occurring on some other type of roadway.

Speeding was the most commonly reported reason for a vehicle being stopped (44.9%). Other moving violations accounted for 12.5% of stops while 33.8% were for other nonmoving violations. Another 7.4% of stops involved red light or lane violations. Penal code violations made up the remaining 1.3% of stops.

On average accepted traffic stops lasted 11 minutes. Drivers were nearly equally likely to receive a warning (48.5%) as to be cited/arrested (48.1%). Only 3.4% of stops resulted in some other outcome.

Once stopped, only 4.3% of all accepted stops resulted in some type of search. The vehicle was most often the target of the search (90.4%). Drivers were searched in 78.5% of all stops resulting in a search. Only 27.6% of stops resulting in a search involved a search of passengers. Personal effects were searched in 14.7% of stops resulting in a search.

Most often, consent (50.8%) was the authority under which the search was conducted. Incident to arrest (21.9%) was the next most commonly reported search authority. Inventory and probable cause were each reported as the search authority in roughly 8.0% of searches. Plain view (5.3%), reasonable suspicion/weapon (3.8%), and other (1.7%) were also reported as the search authority.

In 53.0% of all searches, no contraband was found. Illegal drugs were found in 23.0% of searches while 18.3% uncovered drug paraphernalia and in 16.0% alcohol was found to be present. Firearms (1.4%) and other weapons (3.0%) were found infrequently as was currency (1.0%), stolen property (0.8%), and other contraband (2.2%).

The majority of the drivers involved in these stops were male (63.8%). Female drivers were underrepresented compared to the population of the state at only 36.2%.

Statewide the majority of drivers of stopped vehicles were white (94.1%). Black drivers accounted for just 4.1% of stops. Less than 2.0% of all drivers were of some other race.

The reported driver age ranged from 10 to 97 years of age. The average age of drivers involved in these traffic stops was 35.6 while the most frequently reported age was 20. Juveniles (age 17 and under) accounted for just 3.0% of all drivers. Individuals between the ages of 25 and 39 made up the greatest proportion of all drivers at 37.5%. Those in the next older age group, 40 to 59 year olds, accounted for 29.3% of stops. Younger drivers, 18 to 24 year olds, made up 23.9% of stops. Only 6.4% of stops involved drivers age 60 and older.

The table above provides an overview of the key disparity indicators at the state level. This same information is provided in separate tables at the agency level for those agencies submitting 50 or more accepted stops during the six-month period analyzed. Stop, search, citation/arrest, and contraband hit counts are provided by race and in total. Benchmarks are based on an adjusted Census population for the state of 1,616,435. In addition, calculations for various standard measures of disparity are illustrated at the state level.

Overview of Report

This report provides statistical information on all of the traffic stops submitted by law enforcement officers and a series of analyses that center on the issue of whether disparity is present in traffic stops and post-stop outcomes. As noted above, information on the number of agencies not reporting, rejection/acceptance rates for MVSFs, traffic stops involving out-of-state vehicles, and agencies reporting fewer than 50 stops is presented. In addition to this background information, this report also displays the results of the analysis on traffic stops and post-stop outcomes.

The findings are arranged in alphabetical order and divided into two groups: city/county agencies and state police detachments. Simple frequencies and percentages of traffic stops are presented (see Stop Frequency Information for State Police Detachments and Stop Frequency Information for City/County Agencies). Frequency and percentage information on searches is also presented (see Search Frequency Information for State Police Detachments and Search Frequency Information for City/County Agencies).

These results are followed by a presentation of key disparity indicators. Similar to the analyses above, these findings are divided by type of police agency and by stops and searches (see Key Disparity Indicators for State Police Detachments and Key Disparity Indicators for City/County Agencies). The results from the sub-area analysis of patrol areas are also presented (see Sub-area Analysis of Selected Principal City and County Law Enforcement Agencies).

To assist in making inter-agency comparisons, results from the key disparity indicators analysis are also summarized for traffic stops and searches. These inter-agency comparisons are presented in the appendices section of the report (see Stop Disparity Indices and Ratios for State Police Detachments and Stop Disparity Indices and Ratios for City/County Agencies) and searches (Search Disparity Indices and Ratios for State Police Detachments and Search Disparity Indices and Ratios for City/County Agencies).

¹ Many law enforcement agencies, working closely with analysts, develop rigorous strategies to monitor and audit the collection and submission of traffic stop forms. These strategies can involve a system of internal agency monitoring to resolve errors and identify erroneous information prior to submission as well as efforts to compare submissions to other data systems. These may include: matching motor vehicle stop forms to official citation records, assigning supervisors to review MVSFs for completeness and accuracy after each shift, and cross-checking MVSFs with other official sources of data such as computer aided dispatch records.

² During the current data collection period, the state police and a small number of municipal agencies developed an electronic system for reporting traffic stops. The electronic data system was designed to speed the process of reporting for law enforcement officers and reduce errors resulting in the rejection of stops. A total of 2,829 electronic records are contained in these data.

³ A total of 12 traffic stops were excluded from the 137,683 accepted traffic stops due to invalid dates. This resulted in a revised total of 137,671 traffic stops.

⁴ Population figures based on Census estimates is one of the most frequently used type of data to determine expected probabilities of police stops. However, research has pointed to a number of limitations inherent in the use of Census data. Two of the most commonly cited limitations pertain to the use of residential populations to estimate driving populations and the inability of residential data to account for driving behavior. For instance, several studies have shown that the residential populations may not accurately reflect the driving populations of communities. In addition, Census data does not take into account driving behavior which further influences the probability of being stopped by law enforcement. While the present analysis tries to compensate for the possible disjuncture between the residential and driving populations by adjusting for vehicle ownership, it is not able to account for driving behavior.

⁵ While reported traffic stops for each municipal agency were compared to the adjusted city population in which they were stationed, it was not possible to limit the traffic stops to only those within an agency's jurisdiction. This is because an agency's jurisdiction may include multiple counties.

⁹ The racial group "White" is comprised of all white, non-Hispanic drivers. The "Other" category includes Middle Eastern drivers.

Data Collection

The collection of reliable and valid data is essential for proper analysis of traffic stops. Efforts to ensure the quality of data gathered often involves: selecting an appropriate mechanism for data collection, developing the data collection instrument, conducting a pilot test, training officers to use the data collection instrument(s), minimizing officer disengagement, and developing a data auditing system. However, many traffic stop studies have been plagued by poor data quality because they have not been able to develop adequate mechanisms for ensuring data quality due to the sheer size and scope of the effort. There are a number of strategies and common practices available for monitoring data quality, however, many of these techniques proved to be very difficult to implement given the statewide focus of the current analysis.¹ Nonetheless, considerable effort was given to monitoring traffic stop submissions in an attempt to maintain some level of data quality.

Efforts to Improve Data Quality

Legislative rule §149 CSR 5 charged the WV Division of Motor Vehicles with the task of ensuring the accurate and reliable collection of traffic stop data submitted by law enforcement officers across the state. The Division of Motor Vehicles secured a vendor for the scanning and data collection, developed the Motor Vehicle Stop Form, printed and distributed the forms, instructions and a training CD to every law enforcement agency in the state. Each agency was asked to designate a contact person. While a majority of law enforcement agencies did provide a contact person, there were several who did not respond to the DMV's initial effort. The DMV maintained monthly communication with each participating agency. Each agency was advised of the number of submissions, rejections and percentages of rejections for each month. If submissions appeared to be lower than past submissions or lower than the submissions of agencies near the same size and similar mission, they were identified as "low reporting" agencies. This information was communicated with the chief executive of that agency.

To better ensure compliance and provide law enforcement agencies with all necessary information on completing and submitting MVSFs, the DMV developed a webpage with basic information on the Racial Profiling Data Collection Act and training (For more information on MVSF instructions and training procedures, see WV Department of Transportation Racial Profiling Website). The DMV website continues to host a copy of the Law, Legislative Rule, PowerPoint training presentation on completing the MVSF, frequently asked questions, contact information, directions based on agency size, list of county numbers, and links to every other involved agency. Recently, the DMV initiated electronic submission of the MVSFs and currently between 20-30% of all stops are submitted electronically. The DMV plans to supply every agency with their yearly traffic stop totals and ask them to certify the number of stops reported.

Preparing the Traffic Stop Data for Analysis

Law enforcement officers began submitting MVSFs to the Division of Motor Vehicles on January 1, 2007. Submission of MVSFs involved mailing the forms to the DMV to be scanned and read into a database.² Once a MVSF was scanned, the form would either be accepted or rejected depending on whether it contained missing information or could be read by the scanning software. If rejected, the MVSF would be sent back to the submitting agency for correction and resubmission (see MVSFs Rejected by Variable). Only accepted MVSFs were eligible for analysis and included in the final sample of traffic stops. As of December 2007, a total of 253,877 MVSFs were submitted to the DMV. Of these, a total of 196,294 or 77.3% were accepted for analysis (see Total Number of Traffic Stops and Rejection Rates). A total of 69 law enforcement agencies did not report a single traffic stop as of December 2007 (see Non-Reporting Law Enforcement Agencies).

Once MVSFs were submitted to the DMV by law enforcement agencies, several additional steps were necessary to prepare the traffic stop data for analysis. A review of the MVSFs submitted by month further revealed that the number of MVSFs rejected declined considerably after the first few months of data collection. Given the large number of rejected forms in January through March, these forms were excluded from the analysis due to validity concerns (see Total Number of Traffic Stops and Rejection Rates). Moreover, the number of traffic stops reported after October was considerably lower than the previous nine months due to a lag in the submission of paper MVSFs and the time involved in the scanning process. Hence, the traffic stops made in April through September were chosen for analysis and are included in this report. A total of 134,854 MVSFs, plus an additional 2,829 electronic records were submitted and subsequently accepted during this six-month period for a total of 137,683 traffic stops.

Of the 137,671 accepted traffic stops from April through September, a total of 106,225 or 77.2% were of vehicles with WV registration (see Vehicle Registration by Agency).³ These 106,225 traffic stops served as a basis for the statewide analysis. Given that the benchmark by which traffic stops are compared in this report utilizes adjusted Census data, the 31,446 traffic stops involving vehicles with out-of-state or no registration were removed from the analysis (see Out-of-State Traffic Stops by Agency and Race). Finally, agencies that reported fewer than 50 traffic stops during this six-month period were excluded from the agency level analysis (see Agencies Reporting Fewer than 50 Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by Race). For a distribution of the total number of stops by agency, including agencies with less than 50 reported stops, see Traffic Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by Agency and Traffic Stops of WV Registered Vehicles by County of Stop. For all agency level analysis, a total of 104,478 traffic stops were examined and the results are shown in all Key Disparity Indicator and Frequency Information tables by agency. These stops were submitted by 143 city/county level agencies and 64 state police detachments (agencies with over 50 total stops).

¹ Many law enforcement agencies, working closely with analysts, develop rigorous strategies to monitor and audit the collection and submission of traffic stop forms. These strategies can involve a system of internal agency monitoring to resolve errors and identify erroneous information prior to submission as well as efforts to compare submissions to other data systems. These may include: matching motor vehicle stop forms to official citation records, assigning supervisors to review MVSFs for completeness and accuracy after each shift, and cross-checking MVSFs with other official sources of data such as computer aided dispatch records.

² During the current data collection period, the state police and a small number of municipal agencies developed an electronic system for reporting traffic stops. The electronic data system was designed to speed the process of reporting for law enforcement officers and reduce errors resulting in the rejection of stops. A total of 2,829 electronic records are contained in these data.

³ A total of 12 traffic stops were excluded from the 137,683 accepted traffic stops due to invalid dates. This resulted in a revised total of 137,671 traffic stops.

Total Number of Traffic Stops and Rejection Rates

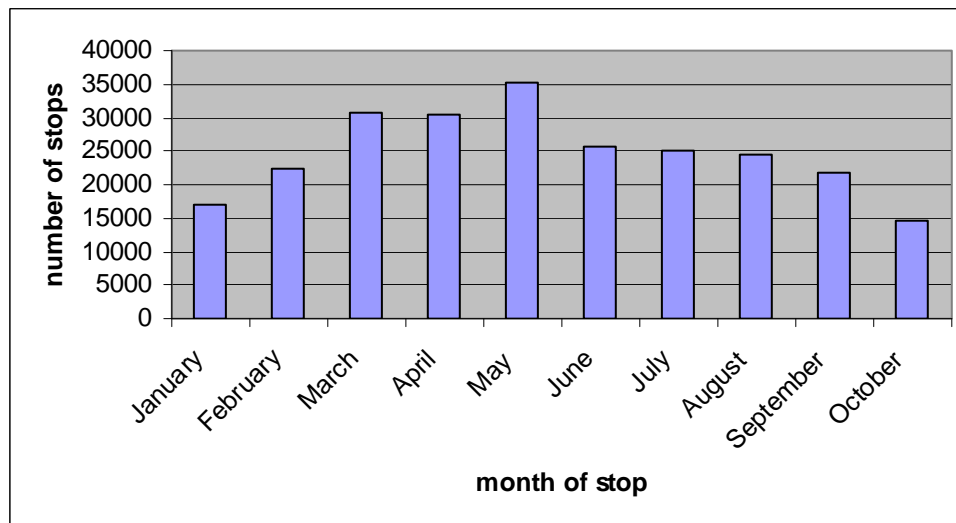

As of December 2007, a total of 253,877 MVSFs were submitted to the DMV. Of these, a total of 196,294 or 77.3% were accepted for analysis. The table below provides a summary of the number and percentage of accepted and rejected forms by month. As shown in this table, rejection rates were above or near 30% for the first three months of 2007. After March of 2007, the percentage of rejected forms slowly declined to a low of 9.0% in the months of September and October 2007. Submissions for November and December 2007 were clearly incomplete at the time these data were extracted and were not considered for analysis. In addition, 5,985 MVSFs could not be used due to invalid date information.

The graph below displays the distribution of traffic stops reported by month for the state. As shown in this graph, far fewer stops were reported during the months of January, February, and October compared to the months of March through September. A peak in traffic stops occurred in May due to the statewide "Click it or Ticket" campaign.

Total Number of Traffic Stops Reported by Month

Below is a graphical illustration of the percentage of accepted and rejected forms by month. As shown in this graph, the percentage of accepted forms increased throughout the reporting period, while the percentage of rejected forms declined.

Percentage of Accepted and Rejected Forms by Month

Rejection rates were further examined by gender and race to determine whether more forms were being rejected for certain drivers. The tables below illustrate the rejection rates by gender and race of the driver for the time period from January through October 2007.

MVSFs Rejected by Variable

The table below displays the percentage of MVSFs rejected by variable. As shown below, the MVSF gathered a variety of information about characteristics of drivers and passengers as well as the context of the traffic stop. If a form contained missing or erroneous information on any of the form fields or variables, it was deemed to be rejected by the scanning software. The most common reasons for rejection included a missing or erroneous officer identifier (13.4%), data of stop (15.3%), patrol area (14.6%), reason for the stop (38.7%), and ethnicity (12.1%). While multiple errors often occurred on a single form, these five variables were found in the largest percentage of rejected forms.

Stop Frequency Information for State Police Detachments

These tables provide specific information about the driver of the vehicle and the circumstances of the stop by racial group for each State Police detachment submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. Specifically, the number of reported stops is shown by gender and age group for each race and the agency as a whole. The type of roadway, the reason for the stop, the disposition or outcome of the stop, and the duration of the stop are also provided.

For the purposes of this report, reason for stops was collapsed into five categories for analysis. The two speeding categories (i.e., greater than and less than 10 miles per hour over the speed limit) were collapsed into a single "speeding" category. "Red light/lane" combines red light/stop sign and lane violation/failure to signal. The "all other" category represents all penal code violations.

Stop Frequency Information for City/County Agencies

These tables provide specific information about the driver of the vehicle and the circumstances of the stop by racial group for each law enforcement agency submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. Specifically, the number of reported stops is shown by gender and age group for each race and the agency as a whole. The type of roadway, the reason for the stop, the disposition or outcome of the stop, and the duration of the stop are also provided.

For the purposes of this report, reason for stops was collapsed into five categories for analysis. The two speeding categories (i.e., greater than and less than 10 miles per hour over the speed limit) were collapsed into a single "speeding" category. "Red light/lane" combines red light/stop sign and lane violation/failure to signal. The "all other" category represents all penal code violations.

Search Frequency Information for State Police Detachments

These tables provide specific information about the circumstances of stops where a search was conducted by racial group for each State Police detachment submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. The number of searches conducted by race and for the agency as a whole is provided in terms of the search authority, mode of search, what persons/items were searched, and what type of contraband, if any, was found.

Officers were instructed to “mark all that apply” on mode of search, persons/items searched, and contraband found. Thus, counts shown will not sum to the total number of searches for a given agency or race group.

“Other” category for search authority includes probation/parole waiver and all other types of searches. Totals for persons/items searches represent the number of stops in which a particular type of search was conducted – not the number of individuals or items searched.

Search Frequency Information for City/County Agencies

These tables provide specific information about the circumstances of stops where a search was conducted by racial group for each law enforcement agency submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. The number of searches conducted by race and for the agency as a whole is provided in terms of the search authority, mode of search, what persons/items were searched, and what type of contraband, if any, was found.

Officers were instructed to “mark all that apply” on mode of search, persons/items searched, and contraband found. Thus, counts shown will not sum to the total number of searches for a given agency or race group.

“Other” category for search authority includes probation/parole waiver and all other types of searches. Totals for persons/items searches represent the number of stops in which a particular type of search was conducted – not the number of individuals or items searched.

Key Disparity Indicators for State Police Detachments

These tables provide detailed information on stops, searches, citation/arrests, and contraband hits by race group for each law enforcement agency submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. The adjusted Census population and the benchmark for each race group are also provided for each agency. State Police detachments are listed in alphabetical order.

Counts and percentages are provided for each race and totaled for the agency. In addition, standard measures of disparity have been calculated for each agency and race group using the formulas shown below.

Please note that all results presented in these tables have been rounded; however, all calculations were performed on unrounded values. Thus, incorrect results may be obtained if the following formulas are applied to the rounded values as shown. This is due to the compounding of round-off error.

Calculations:

Stop Disparity Index = % of total stops / benchmark

Stop Disparity Ratio = stop disparity index minority / stop disparity index majority (white)

Search Disparity Index = % of total searches / % of total stops

Search Disparity Ratio = search disparity index minority / search disparity index majority (white)

Search Rate = (# of total searches / # of total stops) *100

Citation/arrest Rate = (# of citation/arrests / # of total stops) *100

Contraband Hit Rate = (# of contraband hits / # of total searches) *100

For further information on the interpretation of these measures please refer to the Overview of Statewide Findings.

Key Disparity Indicators for City/County Agencies

These tables provide detailed information on stops, searches, citation/arrests, and contraband hits by race group for each law enforcement agency submitting a total of 50 or more stops of WV registered vehicles from April through September 2007. The adjusted Census population and the benchmark for each race group are also provided for each agency. County and local agencies are listed in alphabetical order.

Counts and percentages are provided for each race and totaled for the agency. In addition, standard measures of disparity have been calculated for each agency and race group using the formulas shown below.

Please note that all results presented in these tables have been rounded; however, all calculations were performed on unrounded values. Thus, incorrect results may be obtained if the following formulas are applied to the rounded values as shown. This is due to the compounding of round-off error.

Calculations:

Stop Disparity Index = % of total stops / benchmark

Stop Disparity Ratio = stop disparity index minority / stop disparity index majority (white)

Search Disparity Index = % of total searches / % of total stops

Search Disparity Ratio = search disparity index minority / search disparity index majority (white)

Search Rate = (# of total searches / # of total stops) *100

Citation/arrest Rate = (# of citation/arrests / # of total stops) *100

Contraband Hit Rate = (# of contraband hits / # of total searches) *100

For further information on the interpretation of these measures please refer to the Overview of Statewide Findings.

Sub-area Analysis of Selected Principal City and County Law Enforcement Agencies

These tables provide detailed information on stops, searches, citation/arrests, and contraband hits by race group for selected law enforcement agencies at the patrol area level. The adjusted Census population and the benchmark for each race group are also provided for each patrol area.

Counts and percentages are provided for each race and totaled for the patrol area. In addition, standard measures of disparity have been calculated for each patrol area and race group using the formulas shown below.

Please note that all results presented in these tables have been rounded; however, all calculations were performed on unrounded values. Thus, incorrect results may be obtained if the following formulas are applied to the rounded values as shown. This is due to the compounding of round-off error.

Calculations:

Stop Disparity Index = % of total stops / benchmark

Stop Disparity Ratio = stop disparity index minority / stop disparity index majority (white)

Search Disparity Index = % of total searches / % of total stops

Search Disparity Ratio = search disparity index minority / search disparity index majority (white)

Search Rate = (# of total searches / # of total stops) *100

Citation/arrest Rate = (# of citation/arrests / # of total stops) *100

Contraband Hit Rate = (# of contraband hits / # of total searches) *100

For further information on the interpretation of these measures please refer to the Statewide Overview of Findings.

In addition, totals by patrol area may not add to the total stops for the agency due to invalid patrol area information. Stops with a patrol area number/code other than those designated by the agency were removed. In addition, designated patrol areas were collapsed for some agencies to better match census boundaries and thus allow for a more accurate benchmark.

Number and percent of agency cases removed for invalid patrol area

Additional Guidelines

- The circles must be shaded in as completely as possible but not shaded outside the circles. A simple line through a circle will not process.
- Do not press so hard that the ink or lead bleeds through the other side or physically tears the form as this will cause incorrect recognition of the fields.
- Ensure that the forms remain in tact and are not torn, bent, taped, or otherwise mutilated. The triangles are required for form registration.
- Ensure that the glue binding comes off cleanly before submitting the forms. Excess glue will cause scanning inaccuracies.
- If a form tears when removing from the booklet, simply write void across it (Must be sent to DMV and accounted for) and complete another one. It will likely cause a reject and require the form to be resubmitted.

After Completing the Forms

Mail to: WV MVSF Governor's. Highway Safety
The Miller Building
2 Hale Street, Suite 100
Charleston, WV. 25301

Return Address Labels will be shipped along with MVS Forms. When submitting completed forms please separate and identify forms that are being submitted for the first time from resubmitted forms, resubmitted forms will include forms rejected by the scanning process due to error, incompleteness, defect, tears, etc. that have been sent back to your agency.
