30 upon which the business may be conducted.

31 (c) The commissioner, in making the rules, and in granting authority to persons to engage 32 in the bonding business, shall take into consideration both the financial responsibility and the 36 to be a person of good moral character.

37 (d) The applicant shall provide a qualifying power-of-attorney from an insurer or deliver a 38 mortgage or lien on real property or negotiable instruments, upon which he or she may provide

47 and provisions of this article.

48 (g) (1) The commissioner shall require a person authorized as a bail bondsman to renew 49 every three years and to file an affidavit stating that since his or her previous authorization to 50 engage in the bonding business he or she has abided by the provisions of this article.

51 (2) A person swearing falsely in an affidavit required by this section is guilty of false 52 swearing.

53 (3) A person seeking to renew his or her authorization to engage in the bonding business

54 is required to submit to the property and casualty licensing procedures for a second time, unless 55 he or she has voluntarily terminated his or her authorization to engage in the bonding business.

57 (1) The total number of bail bonds provided in the preceding month; and

58 (2) The value of those bonds and the total amount of outstanding collateral remaining upon

59 which bonds may be secured. If the total value of bonds exceeds two times the value of the

60 collateral, the bondsman shall cease operating until the following quarter when he or she provides

61 a report to the commissioner indicating unencumbered collateral exists to secure the bonds

62 provided by him or her.

63 (i) The commissioner shall furnish an alphabetical list of all authorized bail bondsmen to 64 each place of detention.

65 (j) After September 1, 2021, no person may, either as principal, or as agent, clerk, or

66 representative of another, engage in the bonding business in any court regularly exercising

67 criminal jurisdiction until authorized pursuant to the rules.
