15 agricultural club for African American males at the time. Females were allowed membership in the 16 FFA in 1969; and

18 FFA Organization to reflect the growing diversity in the agriculture sector. There are currently over 19 one million members nationally. FFA was chartered in West Virginia in 1928, and the state

1 association was organized with the first state officer team during that year. In West Virginia there 2 are currently 91 agriculture education programs, serving over 7,489 members across the state;
